

Richard B. Harrison, "De Lawd," Succumbs Today in New York City

Negro Actor, Who Played Leading Role in "The Green Pastures," Starred in the Play for Five Years.

WAS SON OF SLAVES

Was Various Bell Boy, Pullman Porter, Farm Hand, Railroad; Beloved of the Negro Race.

New York, March 14 (AP).—Richard Berry Harrison, who appeared in the role of "De Lawd" in "The Green Pastures," died at 8:20 a. m. today in the Fifth Avenue Hospital. Death resulted from a paralytic stroke suffered on March 2 as he prepared for a matinee performance in his dressing room. He was 70 years old.

Harrison, Calabrian-born son of former slaves, was snatched from obscurity at 66 to become the star of one of the most successful plays of the American theatre. In the five years he starred in the play, never missing a performance until stricken as he prepared for his 1,659th appearance, he became one of the outstanding and beloved members of the negro race.

He was born on September 28, 1864, in London, Ontario, and entered the theatre after serving at various vagrant jobs of bell-boy, pullman porter, farmhand and railroad worker. He was self-educated, but when he achieved stardom in "The Green Pastures," he was accepted as an educational force among his own people.

Not only was Harrison the star of the play he served for so long, but he also was the counselor and occasional provider for the rest of the players. Negro actors, notoriously improvident, always found a ready loan in "De Lawd," and one of the most familiar sights backstage on Saturday was the gathering of the players to repay the loans Harrison had advanced during the week.

When "The Green Pastures" returned to New York on February 26 of this year to re-open on the fifth anniversary of its premiere performance, Harrison stipulated that the engagement be limited to three weeks. He was troubled by the illness of his wife of fifty years, in Chicago.

His daughter, Marian, also had been in poor health, and five years of trouping 40,000 miles to 203 cities made him eager for family life. He also had a son, Paul Dunbar Harrison, named for his friend, Paul Dunbar, negro poet.

Started at Lowly Jobs.

Harrison, at 17, began life working at lowly jobs in hotels of Windsor, Ont., and Detroit and later in a Detroit club. He studied elocution and dramatics and in 1891 made his first public appearance as a dramatic reader.

Thereafter, for many years, he was a familiar figure in the chateaus and lycées, touring from Canada to Mexico as a Shakespearean reader, and a teller of dialect stories.

He finally achieved a settled position when he was invited to establish a drama school at the Agricultural and Technical College, Greensboro, N. C. He has finished his seventh year as head of that school when he entered "The Green Pastures."

Harrison's selection for the role of "De Lawd" was the result of a chance encounter with Marc Connelly, who dramatized the play from the negro stories of Roark Bradford. Frustrated in his efforts to find a negro with the gentleness and benignity of expression the role demanded, Connelly roamed Harlem, New York's negro section, hoping to meet just such a man.

He called at a Harlem casting office where he found Harrison recruiting players for a church production. At first Harrison demurred. Impersonation of the deity, he feared, might be regarded as a sacrilege. On the insistence of friends, however, he entered the show. One of those who persuaded him to take the part was the Right Reverend Herbert Shipman, suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of New York.

In 1931, a year after "The Green Pastures" was awarded the Pulitzer prize, Harrison won the Springfield medal, awarded annually in recognition of negro achievement.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $2,414,768,188.54; expenditures $4,728,672,766.07 (including $2,457,355,355.58 of emergency expenditures); excess of expenditures $2,313,904,597.53; gold assets $8,550,928,395.62.

Open Democratic Revolt Threatens To Doom Reapportionment Bill

Bill Which Proposes Increase in Senate Seats From 51 to 52 and the End of Tammany Domination of Both Houses, Given to Legislature Wednesday Night—Ulster, Greene, Schoharie and Sullivan Would Form 31st Senate District.

Senate Rejects Huey's Education Amendment

Washington, March 14 (AP).—The Senate today rejected an amendment to the $4,880,000,000 relief bill by Senator Long (D-La.), proposing an allowance up to $100,000,000 to give needy youths a college or other educational training.

The vote against the Long amendment was 58 to 27. The Louisianaan previously had lost 75 to 5 a similar amendment providing a billion dollars.

Administration forces contended the emergency relief administration already had advanced $100,000 for educational purposes and the President could use any part of the pending appropriation for that purpose.

All factions split on the vote, even the Republican Independents. Eighteen Republicans and 9 Democrats voted for the Long amendment. Fifty-two Democrats, 5 Republicans and LaFollette (Pro-Wis.) voted against it. Norris (R-Nebr.) voted against it because he regards further earmarking of the $4,880,000,000 work funds as "pork barrel" efforts.

Johnson (R-Calif.) voted for it after asserting that while earmarking was merely a temptation and not a mandatory declaration for the President to follow, the Senate had the "right of expression and suggestion" for what the money was to be spent.

"No one will contend the right of expression has been denied on this bill," Senator Glass (D-Va.), in charge of it, interjected.

Wise Warns Coughlin

Syracuse, N. Y., March 14 (AP).—A warning to "Beware, lest you lightly speak words which will feed and fan flames of anti-Jewish feeling," today had been given to Father Charles E. Coughlin by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York city. Speaking last night at Temple Society of Concord, Rabbi Wise asked the radio priest: "Father Coughlin, do you think it fair, Christian, priestly to name six international banking firms and make it appear that five are Jewish when you know that the House of Morgan is more powerful than the five and all the other Jewish bankers in the United States and Europe? Do you want to evoke anti-Semitism?" he asked.

Farley Strikes Blow.

Washington, March 14 (AP).—A fresh blow at foreign lottery operators was struck today by the post office department as Postmaster General Farley denied 269 persons access of participating in these enterprises the right to use the mails. A new series of fraud orders was issued against persons availing themselves in Canada, Cuba, Irish Free State, Italy, Bermuda and Luxembourg. Official said the new "black list" brings the number of the prohibited up to 2,500.

U. S. Activities.

Tokyo, March 14 (AP).—Japanese vernacular newspapers today published sensational accounts interpreting United States preparations for trans-Pacific air service as military activity under the guise of commercial enterprise.

Two Visitors in Week.

Lisbon, Portugal, March 14 (AP).—Two Portuguese visitors cracked up today at the start of a projected flight to Rio de Janeiro, which they had hoped to accomplish in 48 hours with two fueling stops en route.

Albany, N. Y., March 14 (AP).—Open revolt by Democratic legislators today threatened to doom the politically important bill designed to effect drastic changes in New York's legislative districts even before it had its first reading in the legislature.

Proposing an increase in senate seats from 51 to 52 and stripping Tammany of its place of dominance in political and legislative quarters through decreased representation in both houses, the long awaited measure was dropped in the legislative hoppers last night following months of work.

Hardly had it been introduced when the storm broke openly in the assembly, three legislators adding their opposition to that already evident among the seven Tammany assemblymen who will be asked to vote themselves out of office.

Assemblyman Michael F. Breen, Rensselaer Democrat, was on his feet trying to object even to the introduction of the bill and served notice that he would "never vote" for it since it linked Saratoga county in the same senate district with his own county, now represented by Senator Ogden J. Ross.

Assemblymen James E. Stephens and W. C. Andrews, negro Democratic members from Harlem, quickly joined in assault on the measure, protesting against failure of the legislative reapportionment committee to allot their district with a senate seat. Assemblyman Frank T. Quinn, Oneida Democrat, also allied himself with the foe because the assembly plan would cut Oneida county's delegation from three to two members.

A Slim Chance

Not only has the proposal a slim chance of meeting approval in the assembly, unless the legislators are finally whipped into line, but there is considerable opposition in the upper house from members who would lose their offices.

The 17th district, now represented by Senator Joseph Clarke Baldwin III, would be abolished under the proposed plan, and the New York districts now represented by Senators John J. McNaboe and Thomas F. Burrill and Senators Samuel Mandelbaum and Elmer F. Quinn would be consolidated.

In addition, the offices of Senators Ross, Rensselaer; Edwin E. Miller, Schenectady; Rhoda Fox Graves, St. Lawrence; and Arthur H. Wickes, Ulster, the latter three Republicans, are in jeopardy through proposed redistricting.

In the Assembly

In the Assembly the Democrats have only 77 members, a majority of one, making it possible for even a slight defection to prevent the bill's passage. The Democratic majority in the Senate is six.

The bill, first proposing reapportionment since 1917, cuts the Tammany New York county delegation from nine to six senators and from 23 to 16 assemblymen, at the same time decreasing the number of upstate Assembly seats by four.

The upstate counties which would have decreased Assembly representation under the bill are Oneida, Dutchess, Steuben and St. Lawrence. The measure, sponsored in the Senate by Democratic Leader John J. Dunnigan and in the Assembly by Saul S. Streit, has been the subject of long negotiation.

That the McCall committee which drafted the plan considers reapportionment a difficult task is seen in the statement:

"Your committee is faced with a constitution which prohibits a fair apportionment. In addition, by reason of the arbitrary nature of the rules for redistricting, set forth in the constitution, and the difficulties which the courts from 1824 to date have had in attempting to construe and apply them, you are faced with another and even greater difficulty, namely, the choice of a formula of Assembly apportionment which will satisfy the constitutional restrictions and limitations, and will be upheld by the Court of Appeals."

It was the lack of "fair apportionment" which caused Governors Roosevelt and Smith to veto previous proposals.

The report, signed by Counsel William J. O'Shea, Jr., did not deal with congressional redistricting. Proposals carrying this phase of reapportionment are expected to be introduced Monday night.

The Republicans also are preparing programs of both legislative and congressional reapportionment, but they are not yet ready for introduction.

Reapportionment Ratings

Wallace Suggests Price Reduction, 50 Per Cent On Manufactured Goods

Cheaper Merchandise Would Be a Great Help to the Farmers, Would Increase Output of Physical Goods.

HAS NO METHODS

Farmer Will Not Be Aided, Secretary Says, by Further Reduced Production in U. S.

By FRANK D. HARPER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, March 14 (AP).—A suggestion by Secretary Wallace that factories should turn out 50 per cent more goods at "definitely lower" prices dropped today into the debate over future industrial recovery policies. Wallace said these cheaper goods would be a great help to farmers, for whom crop reductions have about reached their maximum benefits.

Moreover, he insisted to a House appropriations sub-committee during hearings on the agriculture department's 1936 supply bill, an increase of 30 or 40 per cent "in the output of physical goods in the cities" is a prerequisite "to getting the entire country in better condition."

"If in some way it were possible to turn out 50 per cent more industrial goods at a price definitely lower than the present price," he said, "the result would be to give a very material benefit to agriculture, to make it possible for agriculture to buy more with the agricultural dollar; and there would be more factory workers to be fed in the cities."

"What methods should be used to bring about that increase is certainly not for me to say," the secretary declared.

He also asserted: "We have reached the conclusion that further action along the line of reducing production will not greatly increase the farmer's share in the national income."

The secretary explained that the farm program was an attempt to attain parity prices, but that "with the powers as now existing, it is doubtful if you could use a processing tax fully and attain parity, for the closer you get to parity, the smaller the processing tax is and, therefore, the less incentive you can give the farmer to hold down production." He agreed the tax must be supplemented in order to attain complete parity.

Predicting that "by next summer the price of meat animals will be so high that there will be a great outcry on the part of the population in the cities," Wallace acknowledged that even his "ever normal granary" program would not give "the very great relief you hope for" of stabilized farm prices.

"As a matter of fact," he went on, "I am afraid that, in this variable world, which is laboring in the shadow of the World War, with the grave maladjustments in regard to other countries—I am afraid that it is impossible to bring about over-all parity prices, but that I would like to have, I wish I could say something else, because I am as gravely concerned as you are with the agricultural section of the country; but, when you endeavor to produce unusual results you often produce a further lack of balance, for which you usually pay."

The secretary told the committee that "the adjustment program has succeeded even better than I had anticipated when we embarked upon it in 1933, and the spirit of the farmers has been even more cooperative than I anticipated."

Police Grapple For Car.

Troy, N. Y., March 14 (AP).—Police grappled today for an automobile believed to have run in the Hudson river from a wharf. The car could not be seen, but wheel tracks led to the river edge and bubbles were rising to the surface of the water. Skidding tire marks led police to believe the car had a driver at the time of the plunge that is believed to have occurred. If an old car had been pushed into the water, police said, there would have been no signs of brakes having been applied. The edge of the dock was splintered, and a jagged hole showed in the ice.

Albert H. Fish Trial Hears New York City Health Board Official Give His Opinion on Unearthed Head.

"I WAS SO SORRY"

Captain John Stein Gives Story of Alleged Reenactment of the Child's Murder in 1928.

White Plains, N. Y., March 14 (AP).—The state, seeking to send Albert H. Fish to the electric chair for the brutal slaying of 10-year-old Grace Budd, called to the stand in supreme court today a dentist to establish that the bones dug up near an abandoned East Irvington, N. Y., cottage were those of a girl.

The dentist, Dr. Harry Strusser, chief of the dental division of the New York city board of health, was shown the skull and teeth of the child and told the jury they checked perfectly with Grace Budd's dental chart.

"My examination caused me to reach the conclusion," said Dr. Strusser, "that the skull and the teeth are those of a girl between the ages of ten and eleven and a half years." The child was 10 years and nine months old when Fish, who looks more than his 65 years, is alleged to have lured Grace away from her home on June 3, 1928.

Under cross-examination by James E. Dempsey, Jr., defense counsel, the witness said it was not difficult to determine the sex of a child by teeth. He explained there is a difference in the time of tooth-cutting between a boy and a girl, while the age could be determined by the amount of calcification.

Albert T. Gallagher, assistant district attorney, who held the skull before the jury yesterday changed his tactics today, handing the gruesome exhibit to Dr. Strusser, Dr. Abraham E. Weil, of the New York police department and Dr. W. Edmund Sullivan of Little Falls, N. Y., in a cardboard box.

A graphic portrayal of Fish's alleged reenactment of the crime was made by Captain John Stein, head of the New York City Missing Persons Bureau, who accompanied the defendant to the cottage, "Old Mysteria," on December 13, 1934, when he pointed out where the child's bones could be dug up.

"I grasped her throat and choked her like this," quoted the captain, describing Fish's reenactment. "Then I cut her head off," said Stein, drawing a finger across his throat.

His voice rising and falling, Stein gesticulated as he showed how Fish said he had dismembered the body.

"I said to Fish, 'How did you feel after this brutal murder?'" said Stein, asserting Fish replied:

"Five minutes after she was dead I would have given anything to bring her back to life. I was so sorry."

After Stein left the stand, the state called Thomas F. Murphy, police stenographer, who produced Fish's written confession.

The confession read to the jury by Gallagher was a repetition of the testimony of Detective William King, who arrested Fish, and Captain Stein. After it was read, Dempsey asked a material on the ground that the constant reading of Fish's testimony was influencing the jury. Justice Frederick F. Close overruled him.

The only thing new in the 5,000-word statement was that Fish told how a cockroach, walking across the wall of his furnished room, ultimately led to his arrest.

"I got up to kill it," the statement quoted Fish as saying, "and I saw about a dozen envelopes on a shelf up there."

Fish used one of these envelopes to write a taunting letter to Mrs. Della Budd, the child's mother, and Detective King traced the writer through the return address of a benevolent association on the bank.

Four Youths Charged By Police With Series of Burglaries Here

Eugene Grace Receives Full Wrath of Veterans For Criticizing Demands

AWAIT GRAND JURY

Melchior and Duffner To Await Grand Jury Action, Tyler's Hearing March 16.

The finding of two overcoats, recently stolen from the coat room in St. Joseph's school hall while a card party was being held there, in an old hut at Lake Katrine, proved the break the Kingston police and state troopers had been looking for in probing a series of crimes within the city and in the county, and led to the arrest of four young men, three from Kingston and one from Lake Katrine. The arrests of the four young men, it is alleged by the police, has led to the clearing up of 13 burglaries and holdups in Kingston during the latter part of 1934 and early this year, and of seven crimes committed outside the city. The four youths were given an all-day grilling at the court house Wednesday, and were held for arraignment today.

The four youths arrested are: Arthur F. Melchior, 18, of 39 Clinton avenue. John Duffner, 16, of 21 Clinton avenue. Albert Tyler, 23, of 57 Elmendorf street. Robert Ennist, 20, of Lake Katrine.

The three Kingston boys were arraigned this morning in police court while Ennist is to be arraigned before a justice as he was not involved in any of the city cases.

Held for Grand Jury.

Tyler was the first youth arraigned in police court this morning before Judge Culliton. He is charged with robbery in the second degree as the result of the holdup at the grocery store of Floyd Weeks at 53 Liberty street several days ago.

The youth in reply to questions by the court stated he had not talked with his father or consulted with any one since his arrest. In order that the youth might have the opportunity of talking the matter over with his father, Judge Culliton adjourned the hearing until March 16, and fixed bail at $1,500.

Melchior and Duffner were represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan of Flanagan & Kaercher, who stated that the youths desired to waive examination and await the action of the grand jury. Both are charged with robbery in the second degree as the result of the holdup of the Weeks grocery store.

Judge Culliton held Melchior and Duffner to await grand jury action and stated that the amount of the bail would be fixed by the county judge.

Crimes Committed in City.

According to the police the three youths, Tyler, Melchior and Duffner have confessed to committing the following 13 crimes within the city limits:

Two overcoats from St. Joseph's School Hall. Texaco gas station at Foxhall and Albany avenues. Colonial City Chevrolet service station on O'Neil street where about $10 was obtained.

Frank S. Tongue's grocery store on O'Neil street. Robert S. Rodia's residence, St. James and Fair streets.

The Bus Terminal Restaurant on Railroad avenue where two slot machines were taken. The Carr residence on Linderman avenue.

The George Schatzel barn in Wilbur where a live turkey was stolen. The Sunoco gas station, Foxhall and Katonah avenues, operated by the Pile brothers. At this station a 25 caliber revolver was taken which was later used, it is alleged, by one of the boys in a stickup here.

The store of the Kingston Plate Glass Company at 36 Prospect street where about $14 in cash was stolen. The Fairlawn store operated by John McGasperis at 56 Emerson street.

The Weeks grocery store holdup at 53 Liberty street. According to the police the boys confessed that in this crime they had obtained $10 which was the amount stated in the information lodged against the three Kingston boys by the police this morning in police court.

The Brunson Distributing Company office on Field Court on January 5 of this year.

Outside City Crimes

According to the authorities the list of crimes which it is alleged the boys have confessed to and which were committed outside the city are:

The Standard Oil gas station, just over the Washington avenue viaduct. This place was robbed twice, the last time a few months ago.

The John Haskin's gas station at Fort Erie, in which an attempt at a burglary was made.

Three holdups at Lake Katrine. A holdup between Woodstock and Ashokan.

Robbery of a gas station in Brimley.

Report on the Bill For Reapportionment

By HOLLISTER STURGES, Jr.
(Freeman Staff Correspondent)
Albany, March 14 (Special)—Late yesterday afternoon the reapportionment bills were handed up by Senator John T. McCall, Manhattan Democrat, and chairman of the special committee assigned to this work. The Senate recessed for two hours while a special meeting of the joint legislative committee on reapportionment discussed the final draft, and at 5:45 the Senate bells in the corridors called the upper house members back into the chamber while McCall's bills were introduced. The counsel's 87-page report, submitted by William J. O'Shea, to the committee, is a voluminous document containing all necessary details of redistricting the entire state for both senatorial and assembly districts. Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, is a member of the committee that prepared this report.

Population figures used in this report are based on the 1930 federal census. In reference to Ulster county and its assignment to a senatorial district, the following extract is from this report: "The most logical grouping for the counties of Sullivan, Ulster, Greene, and Schoharie, is in one district, the citizen population of which is 154,761." This is again stated in the actual bill where these four counties are to be joined to form a single senatorial district. Extract: "Thirty-first. The thirty-first senate district shall consist of the counties of Greene, Schoharie, Sullivan and Ulster." Ulster and Greene counties are now represented in the 29th district, and changes elsewhere in the state have changed the new district number to 31. Delaware county is at present grouped with Ulster and Greene, completing this district. It is now the plan to place Delaware with Herkimer and Otsego, forming the 37th district. The population of the 29th district, according to 1930 statistics, is 111,074. By this same set of figures the population of the proposed 31st district is 160,862.

At present there are 51 senatorial districts. Under the McCall bills one additional one will be created, making a total of 52. This new one comes into being from small cuts made on other territories around the metropolitan area. The number of assemblymen, which is 150, will remain the same, although there are to be different lines drawn. Ulster county is not to be affected, and will continue to have one assemblyman. Ulster county is listed as having a population of 30,155, of which 77,156 are citizens and 2,999 are aliens. In percentage of total number of inhabitants, excluding aliens, according to the 1930 census, Ulster has .696 per cent. Under the proposed bill it will have .666 per cent in representation in the Assembly. The variation is computed as—.030, which happens to tie for nearest in accuracy with Cataugus county, although in this case there is a plus sign before this latter county's variation percentage.

In past years airplanes and coast boats have been used to aid helpless fishermen.

Youths Charged With Burglaries

Birmingham, Alabama, when the boys were on a trip last summer.

The Break in Crime Epidemic

The break in the investigation of the series of crimes that had been committed in the city and county the latter part of 1934 and so far this year came with the recovery of the two overcoats stolen from St. Joseph's School hall recently.

Tyler, Melchior and Duffner were brought to the court house for questioning early Wednesday forenoon by State Trooper Arthur Reilly, who had been investigating the theft some two weeks ago of the overcoats belonging to Dr. Robert Bruce Whelan and James M. Murphy. The coats had been found in a hut along the Eapous creek at the rear of the Mantua property on the Saugerties road on Sunday.

The discovery was reported to Trooper Reilly, who identified the coats as the two which had been stolen at a card party at St. Joseph's Hall, and the trooper began an investigation which led to the apprehension of the three youths yesterday, Duffner being brought to the court house from the part time school which he is attending.

In addition to the coats Trooper Reilly also found some gas lamps and other articles which had been stolen from bungalows near Lake Katrine some time ago.

Boys Drop a Clue

After being brought to the court house the young men were taken in hand and questioned at length by Sergeant John Hopkins of Ellenville and Trooper Reilly, but it was late in the afternoon when, according to the troopers, signed statements were secured admitting participation in the theft of the overcoats and the rifling of the bungalows. It was by chance that a clue was given to the other crimes, one of the lads who had been questioned being overheard to say to his companions, "Remember, nothing but the overcoats and the bungalows." This led to further interrogation by the troopers and when it was found that the boys were admitting to numerous crimes that had been committed in the city during the past year or more Sergeant James V. Simpson of the police department was notified and assisted in the further questioning and eliciting of details of the various affairs in which the youths, according to the officers, admit having been concerned.

Young Ennist was not brought in until late in the afternoon, when his name became connected with the case as having been implicated in the entering of the bungalows and he is being held on a charge of burglary only.

In all the boys are alleged to have taken part in over a dozen burglaries in the town of Ulster and Woodstock and the stealing of three from a gas station in Birmingham, Alabama, when the boys were on a trip south.

Were Armed With Guns

According to the State Troopers the boys were armed with the .25 calibre revolver taken from the Pirie gas station, which is said to have been carried by young Duffner, a .38 calibre revolver said to belong to Melchior's father, and a blank cartridge pistol carried by Tyler.

For their holdup jobs, the boys, according to admissions the police say, they obtained from them, were equipped with dark colored glasses and masks.

Police Hold Confessions

According to the police authorities they are holding confessions which they say the three boys, Melchior, Duffner and Tyler, made on Wednesday.

The police say that the three confessed to participation in the robbery of the Weeks grocery store. It is alleged that Duffner held up Weeks at the point of a gun while Melchior helped himself to the money.

At the time of the holdup Mr. Weeks reported to the police that the holdup men had obtained about $140, but the boys, according to the police, made statements that they had only obtained about $10. The third youth, Tyler, waited outside in the car while the other two were in the store.

The three youths also confessed, according to the police, of the holdup of Leroy Goodgold, bookkeeper at the Bruster Distributing Company office on Field Court in January of this year. At that time the holdup men entered the office and forced Goodgold to lie down on the floor.

Hut Was Headquarters

According to the confessions that the authorities state were made, the hut at Lake Katrine had been used for some time past as a sort of headquarters by the youths.

Its approach had been camouflaged with branches of pine trees and brush so that it would not have been discovered except by chance, or by some one who knew its location. The boys in making trips to their hideout used cars owned by Tyler and Ennist it is said.

Found Stolen Articles

Some of the articles found by Trooper Reilly when he visited the hut answered the description of articles stolen from the different bungalows. Among the things that have been missed in the different places entered have been articles of furniture, utensils of various kinds, silverware, etc. Cigarettes and whatever money could be found was the loot generally taken from the gas stations entered. In addition to taking articles from the bungalows entered at Lake Katrine, considerable damage was done, dishes and other articles of furniture being found damaged and broken.

Attended Card Party

Police declare the boys made their bad mistake when they became involved in the theft of the overcoats at the time the card party was held in St. Joseph's hall, as it was through tracing their connection with this crime that the alleged admissions were secured that led to the discovery of the widespread activities of the group.

Tyler, Melchior and Duffner were at the card party that night, according to alleged statements they made, and when they left were accompanied in their car by two girls who were taken home. According to Trooper Reilly one of the girls that evening noticed a bundle lying on the floor of the car and this was one of the clues that was followed in ferreting out the case.

Poultry Meeting To Be Held Friday

Two poultry meetings planned by the Ulster County Farm Bureau Poultry Committee take place Friday. An all-day meeting will be held at the Stone Ridge Grange Hall, starting at 10:30 a. m. and continuing at 1:30 p. m. In the evening there will be a meeting at the Court House in Kingston at 8 o'clock. Professors L. E. Weaver and E. Y. Smith of Cornell will be the speakers and will lead in the discussion. All poultrymen are cordially invited.

A somewhat different type of meeting is planned for this series. A long list of questions, already submitted by poultrymen, will be taken up and discussed by those present and the specialists. The meetings will be concluded by talks summarizing the problems brought up for discussion. It is hoped that more of the problems of vital interest to those present will be covered in this way.

Tons Not Pounds

Santa Monica, Calif., March 14 (AP).—D. D. Crow doesn't speak in mere pounds when he tells of the big ones that got away. He was fishing for perch off the Malibu Pier when all of a sudden there was a big commotion in the water. Crow's line started paying out at a fast clip and he braced himself to play the catch. Fellow fishermen shouted encouragement. The line gave way, and a whale, estimated at 35 tons, gave a handsome dip of its tail and sounded. "Just my luck," moaned Crow.

Greece Quiet Today

Athens, March 14 (AP).—Normal life returned to most of Greece today while the government, bent on exacting stern penalties for disloyalty, haled the leaders of last week's revolt before courts martial. The cruiser Averoff, flagship of the royal fleet, rode at anchor in the middle of Salamis Bay, a symbol of the revolt's collapse. The Averoff, last of the insurgent warships to be recovered by the government, steamed in to the bay yesterday under the command of a youthful midshipman.

Justice Holmes: Yankee Philosopher

6. BELIEVED WORK WAS DESTINY—IT KEPT HIM YOUNG

This is the sixth and last in a series.

Washington (AP).—Oliver Wendell Holmes could no more be pigeon-holed in philosophy than he could be in law.

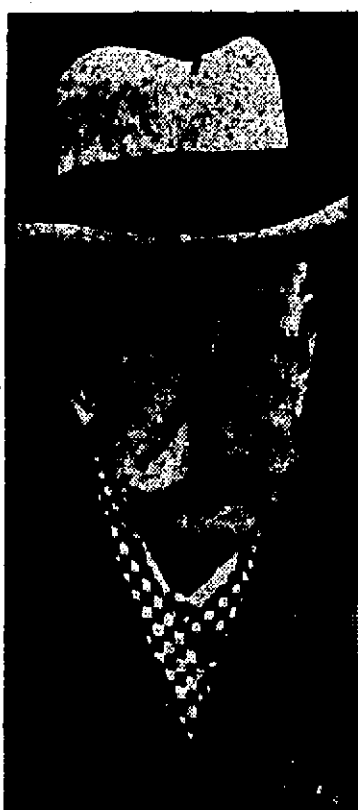

A definition of him in law as either a liberal or a conservative always left something wanting; so, in philosophy, there is no single label that depicts the man and his feelings towards self and the universe.

He was something of a stoic, of a skeptic, and of a pessimist, with the mind of a scholar and the curiosity of a scientist—partaking of life as a bee partakes of clover, knowing it was his destiny to work hard and get as much honey from the bloom as he knew how without worrying too much about who put either the clover or the honey there.

He called the universe unfathomable and, in one of his frequent excursions into military symbolism, he considered that men were private soldiers in the ranks who "have not been told the plan of campaign, or even that there is one."

"The Inscrutable End"
As a result, he believed that "Life is an end in itself and the only question is as to whether it is worth living is whether you have had enough of it." The final judge on that score, he believed, was one's self.

Better than battling with "an unintelligible universe," he found, "was to work in and with it so that 'we should be not merely a necessary

Nearly a decade before this recent photograph of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes was taken, he wrote: "... at my age a man expects to become a ghost."

but a willing instrument in working out the inscrutable end."

His hunger for life gave him the air of a happy warrior who always found a firing line beyond the trench he had just taken and, knowing this, fought for the joy of fighting rather than for any ultimate victory.

Kept Young By Work

To the many comments that he would or should retire as he grew older on the bench, he answered quietly.

"Work keeps me young. If I should quit I would die."

Work not only kept him young, but his ideas were young and it was said of him when he was well past the four-score mark that he had an intellectual youth that most men of 40 years could not boast.

Death to him was something inevitable as surely as it was inevitable that in life one could only "give a sample of one's best."

"Sooner or later we shall fall," he once said, "but meantime it is for us to fix our eyes upon the point to be stormed, and to get there if we can."

A friend who knew him well said that for nearly a decade he never let a birthday go by without giving out the thought that it would be his last. As far back as 1924 he wrote to his friend in response to the annual birthday salutation:

"... At my age a man expects to become a ghost even if in the flesh and it is a charming surprise to receive such human recognition."

If the jingoes in all countries could be put in the first line of trenches first in case of trouble there wouldn't be so many wars.

"GAS" COSTS MORE; MILEAGE LESS; BUT EASILY MADE

Iowa City, Ia. (AP)—It's easy to make high test gasoline out of third rate fuel—if you want to pay six cents a gallon more than the best gas would cost—says Theodore R. Thoren of the University of Iowa.

Besides that, Thoren says tests in the mechanical engineering laboratory here have shown that consumption goes up with the synthetic product.

Thoren's mixture was obtained by blending 20 per cent alcohol with third rate fuel. The resulting product has an anti-knock value equal to that of first grade gasoline. Another drawback, however, he says, is that it is more difficult to start an engine with it than with regular gasoline.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Three hundred men are hard at work making a 50-foot square model of New York city. Every block is represented as a unit, every building 15 or more stories in height being modeled and cast. The five boroughs are separate units which may be detached from the whole. It will take the 300 a year to complete their task. But the model, constructed at the suggestion of Bernard Deutsch, president of the board of aldermen, will prove a great value in fire and police work as well as in administration, traffic control, building and future planning. When the workers, all of them expert, have completed the model they will turn to a geologic map of New York. No such map exists, the cost having been prohibitive. That map will prove not only of interest to scientists but will be of much aid to builders.

The depression has made possible the model and the map as well as other models and maps. Two years ago, Dr. Casper Krauer, a professor of ancient languages in New York university, came out of his office one day and saw two "harem boys" delivering packages. He talked with them and learned they were architects unable to obtain work at their profession. He wanted to help them. Thinking the matter over, his original idea expanded to include other white collar workers. The cartographic study was the result. Advanced, backed, and carried on by Professor Krauer it is a project of the Works' division of the City Welfare commission.

Funds for the project were limited, so at the outset the problem of the fine tools necessary to carry it on arose. The men solved it themselves. From scrap and junk, knitting and darning needles, they made their own. They also found a use for discarded razor blades since they were also turned into tools. With their home-made implements they have constructed products which were shown in a recent exhibition at Grand Central palace, while the map of the Mississippi valley, made by 70 men in six weeks, was shown at the Century of Progress in Chicago during the summer. Also more than 300 men are receiving weekly checks instead of being on relief rolls or doing menial jobs.

Up at the New York Botanical gardens, a seed was planted 30 years ago. By and by, a sprout came up. Now the seedling has grown to a height of 50 feet, the tallest leaves brushing the glass dome in the conservatory. At the top, there are two tassels with greenish flowers. For three months, the blossoming will continue. Then the tree will die. During the years of its life, the tree has been storing up starch for its blossoms. It is a sugar palm which originated in Malaya. The specimen in the Bronx is the only one that has ever blossomed in the United States, principally because there are few greenhouses large enough to maintain a sugar palm.

Natives of various Pacific islands—this is getting a bit away from the City of the Seven Million—in which the sugar palm has been successfully introduced, find many uses for it, according to Dr. Elmer D. Merrill, director of the botanical gardens. Tassels are used as thatch for houses, fibers for rope, caulking and materials for brooms, baskets and raincoats. From the flower stalks sap is obtained which is boiled into sugar or excellent wine. But think of waiting 30 years for coffee sweetening or a drink of wine!

Subway savedropping: "He's so tight that when he dropped a nickel in the morie last night, he poked around under the seats and didn't pick up 35 cents!"

Looking over the display of the new model automobiles with all their attachments, from two horns to clear lighters, my mind goes back to the old days when horns and even wind shields were "extras" and thus added to the original cost. It seems as if I also recall a law which provided that if a horse became scared, the motorist had to get out and lead the animal past the golden thing. Looking into Broadway show windows discloses how times have changed.

Ankara, Turkey.—A rich gold mine which was worked 300 years before the Christian era by King Croesus, last ruler of Lydia, is said to have been discovered in the Boz Dag region of Anatolia. The proverbial wealth of Croesus, known to have been immense, came in large part from trade.

The Turkish ministry for the national economy is investigating the reported discovery and the government may take over the mine.

Latin Radio Queen

Senorita Bertha Delgado Iglesias

Here's the owner of that gay, young voice heard by so many North American short wave enthusiasts who have been tuning in HJLABB, Colombia, 6.45 megacycles, one of the easiest-to-catch of the South American broadcasters.

She's just 16 years old, but she is a real sensation in South American radio circles. Her name is Senorita Bertha Delgado Iglesias (which would be tough on an American announcer) and in addition to her solo work she frequently sings duets with her 14-year-old brother, Gilberto, who strums a mean guitar for a lad his age. They are members of a family of noted Colombian musicians.

It is more unfortunate to be humor-blind than to be color-blind.

First Chorus Girl—Still, I think all the show needs is a little pruning.

Second Chorus Girl—No! It's full of prunes now.

It often happens that the man who boasts he says what he thinks, doesn't wait for his thoughts to catch up with him, if ever.

Man—I know why you're so hard up. You are trying to keep up with the neighbors.

Friend—Worse than that! We're trying to keep up with those who are trying to keep up with the neighbors.

Still, if it hadn't been for those rugged individualists, there wouldn't be any wealth to share.

New Convict (as he learned the rules and regulations of the prison)—Lumme, there seems to be a lot I mustn't do. Am I allowed to look out of the window?

Warden—No, that's barred.

Most of us who start at the bottom of a business never work up to anything but a headache.

Registration Official—Where were you born?

Girl—New York.

Official—What part?

Girl—Why, all of me, you say?

A woman begins to worry about smoking hurting her husband's health when she gets tired emptying ash trays and cleaning up after him.

Girl—I hope you don't think I'm the doll type?

Boy Friend—No—I don't think you'd say "Mamma" if I squeezed you!

Things might be different if some of those dictators had to get out and dig "taters" themselves.

Man—Say, waiter, this coffee is nothing but lard!

Waiter—Yes, certainly it is. It was ground this morning, sir.

Be careful what you think because thoughts are magnets attracting conditions.

A certain road inspector, noted for his fault-finding propensities, was inspecting a newly completed portion of the famous long Trans-Canada Highway. He grumbled at everything; the crown was not high enough, the shoulders too steep, the ditches not deep enough, and so on. The foreman bore it all very patiently; then he straightened up to his full height and looked full at the inspector.

"How is she for length?" he asked.

A friend of this Column of Piffle writes to remind us that after more than 1934 years of Christianity we still use Pagan names for days:

Sunday—Day of the Sun.

Monday—Day of the Moon.

Tuesday—Day of Tiw (Mars).

Wednesday—Day of Woden (Mercury).

Thursday—Day of Thor (Jupiter).

Friday—Day of Freya (Venus).

Saturday—Day of Saturn.

We have thrown our last turnip and the old wolf is still at the door. Seems the only thing to do now is to stab him to death with the can-opener.

Man—Does your wife believe all you tell her?

Visiting Friend—Does she? Why, she believes lots of things I'd never dream of telling her.

You can't please everybody, so make sure you're pleased yourself.

The Moss Feature Syndicate, 805 Summit Ave., Greensboro, N. C.

The children all scream, for they're frightened to death. Puffy gets a bit, too, though he's quite out of breath.

"Well, whip 'em," the men cry, "until you can't stand!"

Then up jumps the officer pistol in hand.

Piles Go Quick

Without Sales or Cutting.

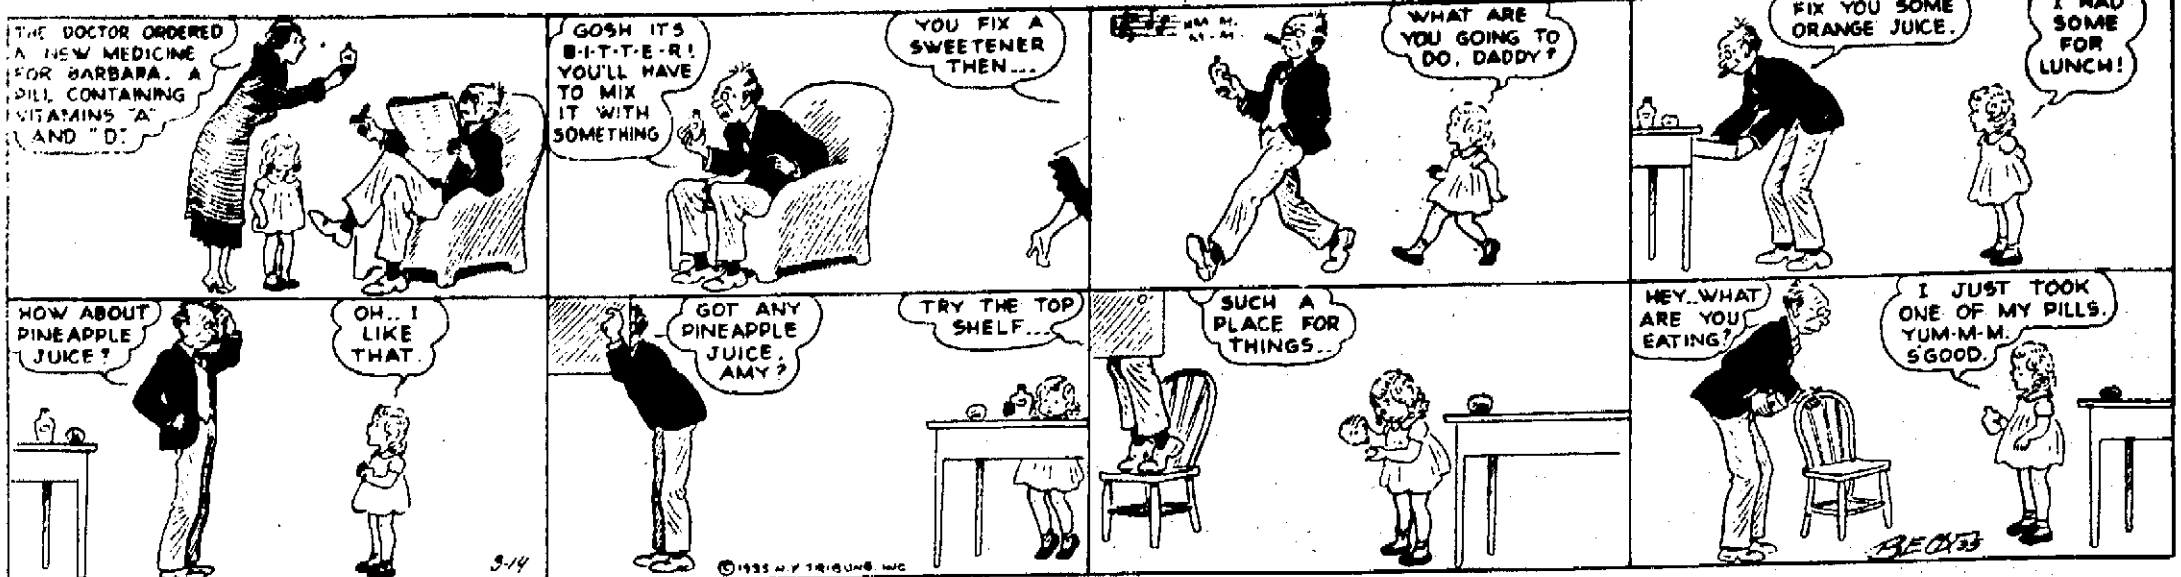

Thousands of sufferers from itching, burning or stinging piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salve nor cutting removes the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are swollen, the blood walls weak, the parts inflamed. To end piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leachman was the first to discover a real internal pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-RID, and gave it to hundreds of patients, with a marvelous record of success, and then decided every pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-RID tablets from their own druggist with a small money back guarantee.

An eye opener to an external remedy or surgery shows an operation when Mr. Piffle tried HEM-RID and was cured. He said of HEM-RID that he had never seen a medicine so effective. He said it was a real money back guarantee.

GAS BUGGIES—Much Ado About Nothing.

Boiceville CCC Camp Woodsmen Are Busy

Shokan, March 12.—Life goes on at Camp No. 2, CCC. The young men stationed at Boiceville appear happy and contented with their lot as members of Uncle Sam's great army of woodsmen. The commanding officer, Lieut. Nathan L. Armour, endeavors to provide some amusement for his men at least once a week; during the winter, for instance, a barracks amateur night contest has been run at stated intervals, with a valuable prize going to the winning barracks. These amateur nights have been so cleverly staged, and so well received, that it has been decided to put on a "Follies" or lively show including a chorus of five girls, a Bowery scene, short skits and sketches, solos and other musical numbers. This "Follies", though not a barracks competition, nevertheless will star some of the leading talent from each of the five quarters units. It has been arranged to have present at the show, on March 26, a number of authorities on feminine pulchritude who will look the "girls" over, possibly with a view to placing the outstanding performers in some of the classier metropolitan night clubs.

Amateur nights, by the way, are plenty of fun in an organization whose members represent a cross-section of American life. Upon the occasion of one of these shows at Boiceville, about two weeks ago, the audience got a great kick out of the splendid "pocket piece orchestra" barracks No. 3 produced; there was Strader with his fiddle, Wally Pach at the banjo, Doyle the Barber making his harmonica talk, and Mandy Collins teasing rousing good music out of an accordion. The No. 3 bunch also put over a number of hilarious skits and incidentally won the grand prize for the evening. The lads from other barracks were good, too. No. 4 especially making a strong bid for first honors with a laughable impersonation of the great Mahatma Ghandi (Let no one believe that they do not have bed sheets at Ulster county's big CCC camp.) Following the show the boys enjoyed refreshments of cake and cocoa, prepared by the camp cooks. The judges at this show were Lieutenants Armour, Glass and Hudson of the commissioned officer staff.

Very Good Movies

Through the courtesy of Managers Hall, Skidmore and Gildersleeve of two of Kingston's theatres, the members of the 215th Company are privileged to see first class motion pictures bi-weekly. The boys attended a showing of that exceptionally good picture, "David Copperfield," and a majority of them liked the film immensely; being intelligent young Americans they were capable of appreciating the exquisite sense of pictorial values and composition, shedding tears when David's father treated him cruelly, and laughing when the young man's wife presented the guests with oysters in the shell. Again, the woodsmen have their homelike recreation hall with its fireplace, easy chairs, radio, piano and victrola. In this community center can be found at least nine daily newspapers and fifteen weekly and monthly magazines. There is a library of 600 volumes. Electric reading lamps make the perusal of papers and magazines doubly pleasurable. Such games as ping-pong, checkers, chess, parchesi, dominoes, bagatelle, etc., are given out every evening under the direction of Michael R. Frolich, the camp's educational adviser, who apparently never wearies of devising ways and means to insure the comfort and intellectual advancement of the 200 men stationed at Boiceville.

Classes Are Held

Mr. Frolich, cooperating with the camp administration, has organized classes in elementary, secondary and vocational subjects for those members of the company desiring to better their education. Such courses as radio, photography, carpentry, auto-mechanic, Spanish, job-getting, spelling, English, first aid, forestry, etc., are available to the ambitious young men at the camp. Journalistic training also is possible through the medium of the "Camp Wreckers News," a bright paper of four pages published every month by the following staff: Editor, David M. Ashcroft; associate editor, William McCune; business manager, William Nunn; contributing editors, Waldo Pach, Robert McCann, Floyd John, Andrew McConnell, John Murphy, James Monaghan, Russell Colgate, William Rosenfeldt, John B. O'Hara, Jess Albright, Lynn Covert, A. Rosenweig, Howard Hoffman, James Hoakland, Velmor Carpenter, Walter Paul and John Feyko. Ulster county residents of course are well represented on this capable staff of budding journalists. A typical editorial, as printed in the March issue of the News, is captioned, "Shall the C. C. C. Be Continued?" It should, in the opinion of the editor, who says, in part, that disbanding of the corps would mean that "thousands of young men, without trade or profession, would be thrown out of work into the streets. You and I, and our brothers, would be pounding the pavements, scanning the want ads, seeking employment. What would you do? All those fellows contemplating joining the C. C. C. would be alongside us. And not only that, many of our families would suffer. Many of us would have to move to the poorhouse."

Citizenship Course

A lively and well attended class this month is the course in citizenship taught by Lieutenant Armour. This class meets Monday evenings in the study hall. The course deals with the organization of our federal, state and local governments. The administration, organization and problems of the camp also are to be taken up. Open forum is held and the discussions occasionally wax warm and exciting. Elman (Pop) Tremper, grizzled World War vet and storekeeper, is one of the profound thinkers who express themselves straight from the shoulder at these citizenship discussions. The teachers in the auto-mechanics course include Lt. Hudson, Members Lichva, McLaughlin and others. The class meets in the state garage where an automobile has been placed for the students to work on in connection with their course. Charles Zimmerman of Chichester has volunteered to initiate the men into the secrets of carpentry and cabinet-making. Leader Zimmerman has made much of the camp furniture and many fixtures involving a good working knowledge of this trade. Carpentry, in fact, has played an important part in the working life of the woodsmen since the fall of 1933, when the camp was "put under wood;" innumerable fatigue details have been assigned to the various little hammer-and-saw jobs which have a way of popping up around a group of well-equipped buildings of frame construction.

Trips to Kingston

Trucks are furnished to take the men to Kingston on Friday nights and hot coffee and doughnuts are given out on Sunday nights when the fellows return to quarters from their week-end furloughs. The woodsmen receive good treatment, they appreciate it and show their appreciation by keeping Camp No. 2 one of the best in the Second Corps Area. The local unit has received a "superior" rating for eight consecutive weeks, a record to be proud of. Sports continue to play an important part in camp life. The inter-barracks basketball was active, as was the varsity team. Very little skating was done by the men this winter. Sports during the coming summer will include baseball, volleyball, handball, tennis and swimming. Hobbies and crafts, field trips and vocational courses also will figure prominently in summer activities at Boiceville. Trips will be taken to industrial plants, museums and scenes of historical interest. It is planned to have a skilled man in camp during the summer months to conduct courses in the various arts and crafts. The outlook on the whole is pleasing, both for those enrollees who will continue in service for several more months and for the young men who hope to be accepted for membership in the 215th company to fill future vacancies in this outstanding CCC outfit.

MODENA

Modena, March 14.—The newly organized Junior Choir sang during the Sunday morning services in the Modena Methodist Church, Sunday morning.

The churches of New Paltz, Clintondale, Gardiner and Modena will unite in holding a series of services during Holy Week, culminating with a three-hour service Friday afternoon, in the Modena Methodist Church, and communion in the Reformed Church in New Paltz, Good Friday evening.

Eber H. Smith has returned to his duties as instructor of Nurses at the State Hospital in Torrance, Pa., after spending the last week at his home in Modena.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Shultis were recent callers on Mrs. Katie Sutton at St. Remy.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Jenkins were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. David Van Wagenen at Ohlville.

Parker Black of Kingston was a visitor in this section, Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Wager and son, Lester, Jr., were in Kingston, Monday.

The early birds get the best sites, we suppose.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, March 13.—A book committee meeting of the Woodstock Library was held in Miss Webster's apartment on Monday. A number of books were decided upon for purchase with this month's appropriation for that purpose. A delightful tea was arranged for the meeting by Miss Isabel Dougherty. Members present were Mrs. W. O. Thompson, Miss Isabel Dougherty, Mrs. Norman T. Boggs and Towar Boggs.

Bruno Louis Zimm has been ill for several days, but is said to be recovering satisfactorily.

On Friday three C. C. boys from the camp in Boiceville visited the Woodstock library to collect several boxes of books given to the camp.

While there they were much interested in the new map of Ulster county which hangs above the fireplace. The library has given books to the camp before and each time the gift has been much appreciated. The books are duplicates of ones no longer in demand at the library, consisting largely of fiction and text-books.

Mrs. Zulma Steele Parker recently returned from a trip to New York where she visited friends and relatives. She visited Miss Mary Wilson, well known to Woodstockers, whom she says expects to return soon to Woodstock.

It was voted at last week's Town Board meeting to apply to the TERA for funds to continue work on the town records. This work was introduced over a year ago as a CWA project but with the closing of that organization it became a TERA project. When the work was nearly finished part of it was destroyed by the recent fire in the town clerk's office. The town will pay 25 per cent of the necessary amount so there was included in the resolution a clause stating that the town's share not exceed $150. George Neher reported on a request from Judson Smith that action be taken on the matter of frequent petty larceny in this neighborhood. It was decided to refer the matter to Sheriff John Saxe for investigation. Mr. Neher also reported that investigation was continuing on the proposal that a dog pound be constructed.

A meeting of the Community Association was held last Thursday to discuss town affairs. Mr. Feeley suggested bringing to the attention of the school board the possibility of a playground and equipment with physical training under expert supervision. A motion was made and seconded to appoint a committee to help the P. T. A. with the projects on hand. Mr. Lindin and Mr. Feeley were appointed. The question of organizing winter sports was brought up. Thomas Carey and Leon Carey spoke enthusiastically on the plan. Its advisability and success in other sections. It was hoped that Woodstock might be included in this nationwide enterprise. A motion was made and seconded to appoint a committee to attend to winter sports matters. A. Wiltz, Leon Carey, Mr. Seism, Mr. Lindin and Mr. Purcell were appointed. Mr. Feeley mentioned the possibility of obtaining a location for a toboggan slide on Park Hill. Thomas Carey offered to see that the traffic signal be put in place after the new road was constructed and to have it properly equipped for lighting. Mr. Seism was appointed as a committee of one to get the business men together to cooperate with the contractors of the new road so that there would be as little loss of business as possible during the summer season. It was mentioned that the parking signs would be placed as soon as the weather permitted. It was decided to reject a proposition made by a Kingston advertising sponsor concerning the posting of Kingston ads. Members of the association are to have the privilege of displaying their business cards on the community building for advertising purposes. Mr. Boggs when called upon, mentioned a conversation between himself and Mr. Wiltz as to the advisability of getting the CCC camp to open trails on the mountain side as they have been doing elsewhere. The winter sports committee agreed to cooperate with the town board in getting immediate action on the matter. It was planned to increase membership. Martin Comeau has been on an extended trip to New York.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "The Right To Live" and "The Winning Ticket." The popularity of the double feature at Kingston theatres is evidenced by the arrival of two full length pictures at the Broadway. The first, with the talented and attractive Josephine Hutchinson in the featured role, is a Somerset Maugham story of a wife who is torn between her desire to remain faithful to her invalid husband and yet is in love with another man. The work of George Brent is especially noteworthy in this tale, and all in all, the show is heavily loaded with drama. Those who enjoy seeing their actors and actresses emulating all over the place will find this highly gratifying entertainment. Colin Clive and Peggy Wood are also in the cast. "The Winning Ticket" tells the thrills and excitement one gets in winning a ticket in the Irish Sweepstakes. A barber, played by Leo Carrillo, holds a lucky ticket, and he has a lot of trouble before the show comes to an effective climax. Louise Fazenda is also in the cast.

Orpheum: "Born to Be Bad" and "Man's Best Friend." Exceptionally fine performances mark the work of the entire cast in the opening play, with Loretta Young, Gary Grant and Jackie Kell featured. It's the story of a boy who has been brought up with the idea that everything is "bad," and a wealthy friend has a hard time changing his mind. "Man's Best Friend" is a dog story with Lightning in the starring role. Lightning is a dog, and he turns in a capable bit of acting.

Kingston: "The Secret Bride" and "Mills of the Gods." Barbara Stanwyck, Warren William, Arthur Byron, Glenda Farrell and Grant Mitchell all find plenty to get worked up about in the first film, a tale that deals in politics, graft, exposure, publicity and secret marriages. So many plots and counter-plots run through this play that the characters even act confused at times. A governor is wrongly accused of graft, his district attorney is also implicated, but the latter is secretly married to the former's daughter, and this complicates matters exceedingly. All turns out in excellent fashion at the end of the play however. "Mills of the Gods" tells of an elderly mill owner, who spends her entire fortune to reopen her factory in order to give employment to the unemployed. The forces of greed and selfishness loom large against her efforts and machine guns play their bloody part in the old lady's effort to be social minded. A problem play, well acted and thought provoking. May Robson, Fay Wray, Victor Jory and James Blakely are in the giant cast.

Tomorrow Broadway: Same.

Orpheum: "Bright Eyes" and "When a Man Sees Red." Gay little Shirley Temple has her best screen plot to work in during the run of the opening talkie, and along with a fine supporting cast, this story of a little girl who loses both father and mother and stunts into the hearts of others, is grand entertainment, tearful and comic as it moves briskly along to a happy ending. The whole show was built up for the youthful Miss Temple and she makes use of every opportunity, but James Dunn and Judith Allen also contribute excellent performances. "When a Man Sees Red" is a Buck Jones Thriller, a full length attraction with pep and action predominate over dramatic ability.

Kingston: "Murder on a Honeymoon." Probably the best murder play of the year, certainly one of the best ever to visit the screen, is this brilliantly done picture that owes its remarkable success to a perfectly cast group of players and direction second to none. Headed by Edna May Oliver and James Gleason, along with Lola Lane and George Meeker, the story tells of an old maid detective and her partner and how they trace down and catch a murderer who enacted one of the most subtle and clever crimes imaginable. The photography is beautiful and the airplane scene is a model of suspense. In fact the entire show will hold any audience from beginning to end. Original, well played and carefully worked out, this film is one of the best of the year when it comes to entertainment value. Good, fast moving melodrama, well worth seeing and enjoying.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Few phenomena of the Hollywood scene are so conspicuously tragic as a "one-picture star," but unless Anna Shirley, director, George Nicholas, Jr., is mistaken there will be no need for tears over Anne.

When "Anne of Green Gables" was previewed, many in the audience who applauded the work of the little carrot-topped actress wondered what Anne Shirley would be her fate. Here was a girl who since childhood had been in the movies. All of a sudden one particular role came along, and it fitted Anne as Anne fitted the role. Hollywood veterans who had never noticed Dawn O'Day—that was the name her mother gave her for screen purposes—suddenly became keenly aware of Anne Shirley—which was what the studio rechristened her.

Noticed in Cutting Room

"I first noticed her when she did a death-bed scene in a picture I was editing, and she played it very well. I didn't know even her name then, but I learned it was Dawn O'Day," he says. "I felt then that Hollywood would see and hear more of her."

The director put Dawn into a fairly important and difficult role in "Fishing School," and that led to the title role in his "Green Gables" film. Directing her again now, he is convinced she has a real future. He thinks she is what is known as "an instinctive actress."

Remember Bea Flowers?

"She really doesn't know she can act," he says. "That's one reason why the things she does are so genuine. She makes an ideal subject for a director to work with. All that is necessary is to break down a slight barrier of shy reserve. Then out comes talent."

One of the "stars" of "Star of Midnight," William Powell-Ginger Rogers vehicle, is Bea Flowers, one-time leading woman of the silent. She plays an important role in the picture, and yet the audience will see little of her. There will be a glimpse of her ankles as she disappears into a bathtub, of her hand as she waves from the window, and her voice will be heard. Much of the plot hinges around the character's disappearance, but as far as Bea Flowers is concerned, it is just a little better than the title role of "The Late Christopher Bean" or "The Man I Killed."

Important Findings

Jerusalem, March 13 (Palestine Agency)—One of the most important corroborations of the Bible during the period of the Kingdom of Judah was made known here today with the discovery of Tel Adduwei, midway between Beersheba and Gaza, of archives with Hebrew inscriptions which give the names of the most famous Israelites mentioned during that period in scriptures. The discovery was the work of a British archaeological expedition headed by J. L. Starkey. The find is regarded as of unique importance because hitherto the discovery of written documents of the Biblical period has been rare and pottery usually has been the only available witness of the Bible stories. Hitherto the archaeology of the period of the kings has revealed only two or three inscriptions. The British expedition has been seeking light on Biblical history for some time at Tel Adduwei, which was known in ancient times as Lachish.

OLIVE BRIDGE.

Olive Bridge, March 13.—Kenneth Barley is improving after a recent attack of pleurisy and pneumonia. Mrs. Reginald Davis has been assisting Mrs. LeRoy Davis with her house work and care of Mr. Barley.

Sympathy is extended to the widow and children of John Davis of Ashokan. Mr. Davis had been suffering with heart trouble for some time before his death, which occurred last week.

The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Virgil Gordon on Wednesday afternoon, March 6.

"ALL THE FUN WAS GONE OUT OF LIFE"

says middle aged woman

Many women suffer from hot flashes, dizzy spells, nervousness and other annoying symptoms of the Change of Life. They get so blue and discouraged that life does not seem worth living.

"All the fun was gone out of life," complains Mrs. S. Marubek of 10907 Edwocoe Ave., Chicago. For five years I was going through a very bad time. I was nervous, had terrible headaches, could not climb stairs and felt swollen. Your Vegetable Compound worked wonders for me. It is a great medicine for any time of life, but especially at the Change and before menopause. My daughter Lucille used to faint at the office. Your medicine helped her and helped my daughter-in-law too."

"I Had Awful Hot Spots," says Mrs. Harry H. Price of 304 New Harrison Ave., Kankakee, Illinois. "The Vegetable Compound put me into me and makes my work easy."

"What they need is a dependable medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1613-B

New Style Sports Frock in Cotton

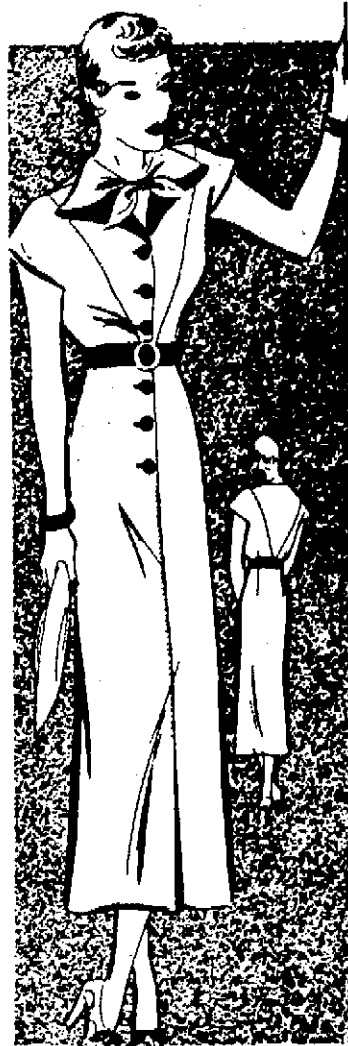

Necklines in spectator fashions bid for attention. The mysterious one in this frock unties at a moment's notice, and lets you see for yourself how really simple it is, nothing more than the ends of the pointed yoke—lined, of course, with a dark contrasting color, and manipulated into throatline trimming. The effect teams with individuality and smartness.

Dark buttons, and a matching patent-leather belt, and bracelet, are attractive finishes.
One of the new cottons is used for this frock—fine-wale pique with navy of same for contrast. Other fabrics may be used too. Natural color canvas, and Italian hemp weaves are new, and because of their rough surface, very interesting.

When sleeves are not short, and set-in, they are formed from dropped shoulder seams in the way pictured here. While wrap-around skirts are a 1935 fashion the most popular interpretation of this detail is in a deeply laid pleat, stitched to below the knees, and from there on pressed into a pleat which supplies freedom when in motion.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1613-B is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, and 40. Corresponding bust sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40. Size 16 (34) requires about 3 1/4 yards of 36 inch material; 3/4 yard 36 inch contrast.

Tomorrow: Two-piece taffeta frock for slender figures.

Miss B. Eleanor Easton of the city laboratory gave an intensely interesting and informing address upon "The History of the Discovery of Bacteria" at the March meeting of the P.-T. A. of Kingston School No. 4, held on Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. The lecture was illustrated by motion pictures shown by Mr. Harrington, assistant chemist of the laboratory. The upper grades of the school were guests at the lecture.

Miss Easton stated that for ages an unknown foe had stalked through our midst leaving dead bodies in its wake. In the year 1600 a Holland Dutchman, Anthony Van Leeuwenhoek, amused himself by grinding lenses and making a microscope through which he examined everything from saliva to the tartar on his teeth. To his surprise he found living organisms of which he made drawings which he sent to the Royal Society of London. These men believed him crazy.

Later, Louis Pasteur, called the father of bacteriology, in studying the fermentation of wine, found the fermented wine teeming with living bodies which were killed when he heated it. Lord Lister still later discovered that sterilizing instruments and surgical dressings made operations safer. During an epidemic of disease among sheep and cattle, their blood when examined was found full of bacteria which Pasteur named anthrax, found to be about the deadliest bacteria we know of. Doctors began to isolate and cultivate bacteria for purposes of study and learned much of value to humanity. In 1880, Dr. Abbey made a condenser which made the microscope more powerful. Since then rapid strides have been made. In 1882 the typhoid bacillus was discovered, in 1883 the diphtheria, next the tetanus and in 1893 the first city laboratory was organized for experimentation and study. Now towns have their boards of health, and Kingston, Miss Easton feels, is most fortunate in having an unusually fine laboratory for a place of its size.

Slides were shown of work in a city laboratory, making cultures, also of the modern production of milk from the care of the dairy herd and the milk handlers, the pasteurization, cooling, bottling and capping the bottles, transportation and delivery to the consumer. Miss Easton explained that not all bacteria are bad, some being most useful to the world.

A vote of thanks was given to Miss Easton for her talk. She was presented by Miss Moeslein of the program committee.

The report of the sale of tickets for the play "Wizard of Oz" was given. The share of No. 4 P.-T. A. in the proceeds was $7.74. A rising vote of thanks was given to Miss Cordis for her work as ticket chairman.

Mrs. W. R. Anderson called attention to the weekly broadcasts of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers on Thursdays from 5 to 5:30 p. m. She also mentioned some of the features of Cornell Institute to be held April 8-12 for the training of P.-T. A. leaders. The entire program centers about the theme, "Providing Adequate Facilities for the Education of Exceptional Children." Mattie M. Carter, New York State Department of Education, will speak on "Helping the Child with Visual or Auditory Defects." Dr. Frederick Martin of Ithaca College will talk on "Speech Problems of Children." Dr. Philip A. Cowen's subject is "The Educational Needs of the Backward Child." Prof. P. J. Kruse speaks upon "Educational Problems of Children with Special Talents and Special Disabilities." Helen H. Heyl, New York State Department of Education, discusses "The Conservation of Abilities of Gifted Children."

Mrs. Anderson also spoke of the request of the state for posters advertising the state convention to be held in Buffalo October 7-10 and suggested some be made by No. 4 students. Some of the features of the national convention were also mentioned.

Woodstock

Woodstock, March 14. The P.-T. A. meeting was held on Tuesday at the library. Mrs. Cohn read the minutes of last month's meeting then read a report from the committee appointed then to interview the school trustee. Several matters concerning the children's recreation group were tended.

When to Plant

Garden plants are divided into four more or less distinct groups: (A) early cabbage, kale, onion set, peas, potatoes, spinach and radishes, which may be planted two weeks before the average date of the last killing frost in your section; (B) beets, Swiss chard, carrots, peas, lettuce, cauliflower and sweet corn, which may be planted about the average date of the last killing frost; (C) beans, parsnips, salads, melons, cucumbers, tomatoes and sweet potato plants, about one week after the last average killing frost; and (D) peppers, eggplant, lima beans, and squashes, which should not be planted in open ground less than two to four weeks after the last killing frost date. These dates may be obtained from the local weather bureau.

WEARILY FACES HIS TRIAL

to. Mrs. Oxhandler told members present that at the last meeting of the Community Association Mr. Feeley and Mr. Lindin had been appointed to cooperate with the P.-T. A. in the projects on hand, relative to school problems. When all business on hand had been completed the meeting was adjourned and Mrs. Osborne, the speaker, introduced. Mrs. Osborne is a social worker at the Middletown State Hospital. Mrs. Osborne spoke interestingly of particular problems in child guidance especially situations which may lead to serious and unpleasant mental developments. She stressed the necessity for a well ordered, well balanced childhood and the importance of great sympathy and understanding on the part of parents. In regards to her own work she spoke of the changed attitude toward such institutions. There is no longer such a stigma attached to having been a patient there. It is being realized now to what a great extent cases can be helped by early attention. When cases are hopeless she explained that there was no slacking in the care administered, for with proper treatment deterioration can be prevented though a cure cannot be made. She described many specific case histories, most of which are now cases on parole, that is, discharged from the hospital but still under observation. In many cases cure cannot be complete but there is a certain social adjustment which if well understood and the individuals given care can make for these cases they have helped a comfortable place in society. At the end of her lecture she invited her audience to question her, which they eagerly did. Then followed a pleasant tea in Miss Webster's apartment. The attendance at the meeting was larger than any P.-T. A. meeting this year, over 20 being present.

Plumbers Invited.

All master plumbers are invited by the local National Housing Act Committee to attend the meeting at the city hall, Friday evening. It will start at 7 o'clock.

Tin Can Trap Boar

Bradley, Cal. (AP).—Hames valley officials engaged in a campaign of poisoning squirrels encountered a wild boar which had gotten its snout so tightly wedged into a tin can it was unable to eat and was weakened from starvation. Two men on horses rode the animal down and removed the can.

Wicks Police Bill Goes to Governor

Albany, March 14 (Special).—Yesterday saw final passage of the Wicks-Canney police bill, as the Senate concurred with the Assembly in this measure. It provides that all police departments having four or more men shall not assign their men to more than eight hours' duty in any 24. There is a stipulation, however, that men can be called out at any time for an emergency, and that they can be summoned to duty if necessary from their vacation, and that after the emergency period they may have the balance of vacation of which they were deprived.

Senator Arthur H. Wicks (R), of Kingston, is author of this bill which now goes to the Governor for his signature. It is sponsored by the State Police Conference and has the backing of 100 organizations throughout the state representing over 32,000 policemen.

Peter J. Keresman, of Kingston, is president of the State Police Conference this year, and is now in Albany. He has welcomed the realization of this measure with great enthusiasm. In yesterday's Senate session the measure was passed by a 40-5 vote, those dissenting being of the Republican party. They were: Frederic H. Bontecou, Martin W. Deyo, Charles J. Hewitt, C. Tracey Stagg, and George L. Thompson.

This bill will not in any way affect the police department of Kingston, as four weeks ago, according to a statement by Mr. Keresman, this city adopted an eight-hour day for policemen. Many other cities in the state have a similar rule today, so that about only 10 per cent of all local police officials will be affected.

Joseph P. Moran, formerly of Kingston, and Thomas B. Cunningham are members of the Legislative Committee of Police that helped sponsor this bill. Mr. Moran is president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association in New York city.

During the days of August 13, 14, 15, the annual convention of the State Police Conference will be held in Kingston with headquarters at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Approximately 300 delegates from all over the state will attend.

TONGUES.....B. 24

Unsolved Riddle Of Smith Reynolds Case Finds Match In Death Of Statler Heiress

Pinehurst, N. C. (AP)—Twice within three years veiled death has chosen North Carolina to demonstrate its disregard for the protective barriers wealth draws around its children.

First, it was Smith Reynolds, youthful heir to a quarter of the $100,000,000 tobacco fortune left by his father in Winston-Salem.

And now it is Elva Statler Davidson, heiress to part of the hotel fortune the late E. M. Statler left. The investigation of her death is being pursued.

Aside from the fact that the vehicles were different, death overtook them under circumstances strikingly similar, circumstances equally mysterious.

Most peculiar of the eerie similarities, perhaps, were their forebodings just before the fatal hour—forebodings that say parties could not shut aside.

New Bride To 'Reynolds'
Turn back to a July night in 1932. Zachary Smith Reynolds, world traveler and man of many daring adventures despite his youth, was presiding as lord of his ancestral mansion, "Reynolds," on the outskirts of Winston-Salem.

To that mansion he had brought a new mistress—his bride, Libby Holman, former Broadway torch singer.

And with them for a night of merry-making was a group of friends—some of Smith's hometown chums since childhood, including his cousin, Albert "Ab" Walker; some of Libby's friends down from Broadway.

There was drinking. There was music. There was laughter—laughter of the roof-raising sort for all save Smith Reynolds. There was some laughter on his part, but tempered by his apparent foreboding that all was not well.

Finally they retired.

Fatal Death
In the dark hours between midnight and dawn they found Reynolds sprawled across a blood-soaked bed. In his head was a bullet hole.

Who killed Smith Reynolds? Or did he kill himself?

Coroner W. N. Dalton first decided it was a case of suicide. But that verdict didn't hold for long.

Believing otherwise, Sheriff Francis Scott reopened the investigation. A second coroner's jury attributed death to "the hands of parties unknown."

But there the case was left suspended. Its mysteries unsolved. At the request of the Reynolds family, solicitor Carlyle Higgins not pressed the indictments for lack of evidence. Libby Holman became the mother

Though strangely similar in their mysteries, North Carolina's two unsolved deaths in wealthy families present a contrast in personalities. Elva Statler Davidson (left) was a child of unknown parents, adopted daughter of the late hotel magnate, Libby Holman Reynolds, daughter of a Cincinnati lawyer, was a Broadway torch singer before her marriage and has returned to the stage.

Like the surviving member of the family in the Reynolds case, H. Bradley Davidson, Jr. (left), was unable to throw any light on the strange death of his bride of two months. Davidson, father of three children by a previous marriage, was divorced when he married Elva Statler. The late Smith Reynolds (right) was heir to a third of the vast tobacco fortune. In spite of his youth, he had traveled much, flying his own plane most of the way around the world, before his mysterious death.

known," and Libby Holman and Ab Walker were indicted. But there the case was left suspended. Its mysteries unsolved. At the request of the Reynolds family, solicitor Carlyle Higgins not pressed the indictments for lack of evidence. Libby Holman became the mother of a posthumous son and finally went back to Broadway. In marked contrast to his luxurious life as the traveling companion of Smith Reynolds, Ab Walker took up the business of operating a gasoline filling station in Winston-Salem.

Another Carolina Night
Turn the calendar forward. Two years and seven months have passed. It is a balmy March day at Pinehurst where the wealthy while away the cold months.

Elva Statler Davidson, 22-year-old child of unknown parents whom Statler, the hotel magnate, adopted in infancy, is at her winter home.

Like Smith Reynolds, she never had been denied a luxury which money could buy nor burdened with a care which money could relieve.

With her is her husband of two months—H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., twice her age and father of three children by a previous marriage that ended in divorce. And with them are house guests. When nightfall comes, hosts and guests set out together for a round of the resort town's night life.

There was drinking. There was music. There was laughter—laughter and tears for Elva Statler Davidson.

An accordionist played a haunting melody—Elva Statler Davidson's favorite tune. Maybe it revived forgotten sorrows. Maybe it aroused yearnings unattained. At any rate, Elva Statler Davidson wept and seemed possessed by foreboding.

Another Mysterious Death
Returning home, she and her husband argued as to which should put the car in the garage. They compromised by leaving it in front of the house and retired to separate bedrooms.

Next morning she was found dead in the car, which some one had removed to the garage.

What caused Elva Statler Davidson's death?

The coroner's jury decided she had been overcome by carbon monoxide gas, and an autopsy performed by Dr. C. C. Carpenter of the Wake Forest College school of medicine supported that conclusion.

Solicitor Rowland S. Pruett launched an investigation, declaring her death was "murder or suicide" and certainly was "no accident."

Having accompanied the body of his bride to the north for burial H. Bradley Davidson returned to Pinehurst and was subjected to rigid questioning by Pruett.

The coroner's jury verdict that she "died of carbon monoxide gas under circumstances unknown" left the case open for further investigation which Sheriff Charles MacDonald promised to pursue.

PICK WAKE ISLAND AS PLANE STATION

To Be Depot for Trans-Pacific Air Flights.

Washington.—Aviation brings another out-of-the-way place, Wake Island, into the news headlines. Recently it was announced that Wake, lonely island possession of the United States, will be developed as a mid-ocean station if a proposed trans-Pacific air route comes into existence.

"Wake is the largest of three were specks clustered in the vast Pacific about 2,200 miles from Honolulu on a direct line to Manila," says the National Geographic society. "It is less than two square miles in area and its two neighbors, Wilkes and Peale, have a combined area of nearly three-quarters of a mile.

Without Fresh Water.
"Although discovered by the British in 1796, Wake has never attracted permanent settlers; in fact, few people have ever set foot on its shores and remained to explore it. To students of geography, the island has been hardly more than a name on a list of the United States possessions; to readers of travel tales, it is known only as one of the land spots glimpsed from the rail of an occasional passing vessel; to navigators of passenger ships plying between the Hawaiian Islands and Guam, it is merely one of those 'very dangerous spots' which they are warned to avoid.

"Yet Wake, although without fresh water, is not as forbidding as was Midway Island, westernmost of the Hawaiian group about 1,500 miles to the northeast, before it became a cable station. Wake is clad in heavy brush, and umbrella and hardwood trees, while Midway was a barren sandy spot until earth was shipped there so that the handful of residents, employees of a cable company, might survive. The nearest neighbors of the Wake group are the Tokelau (Tongli) Islands 450 miles to the south-southeast within the Japanese mandated portion of Micronesia.

Not Worth Charting.
"Charles Wilkes, commander of the United States exploring expedition of 1841, was probably the first person to make more than a cursory visit to the island. He thought the island so unimportant that he did not chart it. In his report he said: 'Wake's island is a low coral one of triangular form and 8 feet above the surface. It has a large lagoon in the center which was well filled with fish of a variety of species; among these were some fine mullet. From appearances, the island must be at times, submerged, or the sea makes a complete breach over it; the appearance of the coral blocks and of all the vegetation leads to this conclusion for they have a very decided inclination to the eastward, showing also that the violent winds or rush of water, when the island is covered, are from the westward.

"The island has been in possession of the United States since 1899 when it was visited by the U. S. S. Bennington under the command of Capt. E. D. Tamm. The last official visit to Wake was in 1922 when the U. S. S. Beaver was dispatched there merely to note if any changes were taking place. There is now no anchorage for large vessels near the island. Small boats may enter the lagoon between Wilkes and Wake islands at high tide."

Nudism Is Just an Old Massachusetts Custom
Boston, Mass.—Nudism is an old custom—at least in staid old Massachusetts. Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, state alienist, did a bit of historical research recently and discovered that nudism once was practiced openly. Called "ratters," the nudists practiced their creed by marching up and down the main streets undressed and interrupting prayer meetings. One case Doctor Briggs found was in June, 1657, when Lydia Wardwell and Deborah Wilson were tied to the whipping post and beaten because they came to a meeting "entirely divested of their clothes."

Canadian Tramps 27,000 Miles Around the World
London.—After walking 27,000 miles through 23 countries, Henry W. Wellington of Canada has "dropped in" to see Britain.

Wellington started his walking tour with a few dollars and he declared, never spent them. During his travels he has worked his way by writing, lecturing, acting as an engineer and doing odd jobs.

Before he took to his travels, Wellington was in an architectural office. He was forty-five years of age, and was told he was "too old" and asked to retire. He decided that he was just young enough to take a long walking vacation.

Goat Serum Discovery Lessens Smallpox Scars
Tokyo.—Dr. Hidetake Yagi, government scientist, announced development of a goat serum which apparently greatly lessens the severity of disfigurement in smallpox scars. Doctor Yagi, connected with the Institute of Epidemiology, expects to make an official announcement of his findings in scientific circles in April.

In his research he treated 100 patients in a recent smallpox epidemic in Kumamoto prefecture and had "encouraging results."

In Cornell Dramatic Club.
Ithaca, March 14.—Seventy-five men and women were chosen at the annual Cornell Dramatic Club election. It was announced today.

Philip W. Goldmann, 25, of 24 Broadway, Kingston, was elected to membership for his fine work in acting.

Women's College Club Meeting

In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. N. LeVan Haver, presided at the meeting of the Kingston Women's College Club, held Tuesday evening, March 12, at Mrs. Finch's Tea Rooms, 17 Pearl street. The secretary, Miss Elsie Rice, read a letter from the president of the club, Miss Evelyn Nance, in which she told of the activities of the Ithaca branch of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. James McCommons, as chairman of the membership committee, then presented the candidates for membership, all of whom were accepted: Miss Margaret O'Meara, a graduate of Trinity College with the degree of A. B.; Miss Goldie Friedman, with an A. B. degree from Hunter College, and Mrs. Doris Monroe of Syracuse University, who was accepted as an associate member.

Mrs. Ward Brigham, chairman of the scholarship fund committee, then announced the annual card party which will be held Saturday afternoon, March 30, at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The proceeds as in other years will be used to assist some local high school girl in entering college this coming autumn.

Miss Noone's report on the plans for a series of fall lectures was accepted and the committee was authorized to complete their plans. These lectures, it is hoped, will in some degree take the place of those sponsored so many years by the Monday Club of this city.

At the adjournment of the business meeting Mrs. Rose K. Witter assumed charge of the round table discussion which concerned the changing political economy and its effects upon women. In her introduction Mrs. Witter traced primitive women's evolution from a being equal in all respects to man to a dependent upon man as the provider. Then in answer to a series of questions Miss Mae Quimby told of the progress of American women in Colonial times and the early nineteenth century, explaining the steps by which women changed their status. Mrs. Ida Sherman gave a vivid account of how the political status of women has changed, telling of the factors that have hindered women's political advancement and what she has accomplished in the field of politics, as well as what she must do to overcome obstacles to a political career. How a changing economic world has forced women into a new economic life was shown in detail by Miss Ethel M. Hull. Not only did Miss Hull explain the reasons for this change and the effects, but she traced the economic trends among business and professional women and told of the effects of the depression upon American women.

The political progress made by women in most of the European and Asiatic countries since the World War was reviewed by Miss Agnes Scott Smith. She also explained the reasons for the very rapid economic development of women in these countries since 1918, also calling particular attention to the loss of political and economic equality of women in Germany since the coming of the Hitler regime. Mrs. William Hasbrouck then traced the increasingly important part that women are assuming in international affairs, especially pointing out her interest in all movements affecting international peace.

Mrs. Witter closed the discussion with a summary of Dorothy Thompson's address, delivered this past fall before the women assembled at the annual Herald-Tribune convention, in which this noted feminist explained that if women's status is to be developed further, they must concern themselves not with yesterday's rights but with tomorrow's responsibilities. "Her objectives," stated Mrs. Witter in quoting Mrs. Thompson, "must be concerned with the rebuilding of society in a form in which both men and women can live more creatively, and therefore, more happily than they did yesterday. There is no greater opportunity offered by life than to choose one's work and through it to live to one's fullest capacities."

At the conclusion of the round table, Mrs. Finch, assisted by the hostesses of the evening, served delicious sandwiches, cake and coffee. The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Myron Teller, chairman, Miss Mary Bott, Miss Julia Cook, Miss Jean Estey, Mrs. Ashton Hart, Mrs. Walter Joyce, Mrs. Kenneth LeFever, Mrs. Warren H. McNaught, Miss Elsie Rice, Mrs. Arnold van Laer and Miss Lenor Wonderly.

The next meeting, Tuesday, April 2, will be devoted to an evening of music with Mrs. Mortimer Downer, chairman. At this time the group will meet at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church hall.

CLASSIFIED SECTION - a Directory of the City's Wants

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE C. JACGER

New York, March 14 (AP).—The stock market limped forward uncertainly during the earlier trading today, only to encounter fresh obstacles after midday.

Rails, mail orders, and several industrial specialties pushed up fractions to more than a point, before the list turned.

Much of the advance in stocks was lost by early afternoon, although concentrated selling was lacking. Case turned notably heavy, losing more than a point, while U. S. Steel, Western Union, Continental Can, Chrysler, and others sagged fractionally.

Wall Street's response to the announcement of the treasury's redemption of the entire issue of First Liberty Bonds was largely favorable, although speculators with inflationary hopes were again disappointed, since it was assumed that the government would continue to pursue a conservative monetary policy while continuing its refunding operations.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, March 14.—February attendance lists names of seven children who gained a coveted place on the honor roll, and twelve who have scored perfect attendance for a school average of 96 per cent. The honor roll list includes names of Charles Weidner, Sarah Roe, Christopher Henriksen, Robert Burgher, Winfield Weidner, Donald Smith, Virginia Henriksen. The one hundred per centers are Walter Willet, Donald Smith, John Hillje, Charles Weidner.

A fresh supply of garden and flower seeds have been obtained, a tidy amount of which the children have disposed of to the people living about the district. The children propose to get their plantings in the ground early as the spring and soon as the soil dries up from the winter's frost and spring rains, will start getting the seed bed in shape. It all goes well radishes, lettuce, and perhaps other early garden tid-bits may add zest to their noonday lunches before comes the regretful closing for the summer vacation. Mrs. Weidner and the children always seem to keep their happy family school ball rolling briskly. Harry North, Christopher Henriksen, Mildred Roe, Alicia Henriksen, Edward Hillje, Arthur Henriksen, Catherine Wilson, Virginia Henriksen. Recently the school's garden seed club was reorganized for 1935, with the first meeting and election of officers held after the close of school Friday afternoon. Alicia Henriksen was chosen secretary, and Robert Burgher treasurer. After the meeting delightful refreshments were enjoyed.

Gilbert North of Kingston was a caller about the old home section on Saturday. Mr. North formerly, for several years, was popularly employed as superintendent of the well known estate of H. C. Ford on the High Point mountain road.

Martin J. Every and Extra Silkworth, the well known West Side Olive assessors, were in Kingston on Monday, where they were engaged in making an appraisal for a residential property included in an estate left by a recently deceased fellow townsman.

Miss Cornelia Davis of West Shokan is unable to attend Kingston High School this week. She has German measles.

Mrs. James Burgher of Maple Dell Farm is back from her spring trip to New York City.

Richard Craver and Aartsen van Wagenen of Kingston spent Sunday afternoon and evening socially with friends at West Shokan heights.

Mrs. William Gademian of Bushkill Inn is visiting with her parents in Coney Island. It is reported that she is ill, but friends trust not seriously.

Raymond Davis, the enterprising young Krumville poultryman, got a bad break Monday night when 200 out of 250 of his recently purchased Louisa Hill pedigree Leghorn chicks were smothered in the brooder house.

Walker Valley, March 14.—Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Zeidler were called to Jersey Saturday night on account of the death of a dear friend, Mrs. Schuller, wife of Dr. Schuller.

A Gas Hauser is somewhat improved in health.

A pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. D. C. Jansen March 14. Quite some work was accomplished for the fair next summer. The ladies were pleased to have with them the Rev. Mr. Morgan and sister, Mrs. William Lyons, and Mrs. DeWitt Young of Pine Bush.

The P. T. A. held its regular meeting March 5. At that time a report of the supper and dance was given, which was very encouraging. Nearly $15 was realized. It was voted to give $1 each to the boy and girl who collected the most tent caterpillar nests. The partnership winners were Alice Schrag and Franklin Scott.

Egyptians Believed Cat

Had Spirit Like Humans

"If humans had spirits that could leave the body, so did cats." This was the belief of the Egyptians, whose religion further provided a goddess to guide the little ghost travelers. At their journey's end was great happiness in a sort of glorified Egypt, with summer meadows and richer hunting grounds. This belief in immortality is related by Eleanor Booth Simmons, noted New York authority on cats and their care. It gives thought to the problem of the modern city dweller, confronted with the death of a beloved pet.

Health department rulings prohibit the burial of animals within the city limits. A final ride to the happy hunting ground, via the city garbage wagon, cannot possibly be conceived as just compensation for the wagging tail of yesterday. Frowned upon, perhaps, by those who know not the devotion of a loyal pet, the pet cemeteries nevertheless have provided the answer to those who find it in their heart to do homage to their loved animal friends. Afresh with flowers, pleasant and sunny, the summer meadows characterize in full the disposition of the faithful pet. Almost a thousand animals now are "resting" in the Los Angeles pet cemetery near Calabasas, including dogs, cats, monkeys, parrots, canaries and one turtle.—Los Angeles Times.

Wild Animals Like Homes;

Some Take Long Journeys

A salmon taken in the nets at Greedore was marked and released. Twenty-four hours later it was taken sixty miles away at Ballyshannon, writes an authority in the Montreal Herald. Good going, yet not equal to the traveling powers of the sea. Seals marked on the Pribilof Islands in the Far North have been taken in the Antarctic, 10,000 miles away. They had covered that distance in five months.

Most wild creatures are home-lovers and spend all their lives in one district, but there are exceptions. The caribou trek north in spring and south in autumn. They move in herds so large that they will take forty-eight hours to pass one spot, and they cover between fifty and seventy miles daily.

Elephants move in small herds at irregular intervals. They travel by night and, considering their weight, it is remarkable that they can cover fifty miles between dusk and dawn.

Species of Termites

Some of the species of termites of southern and tropical Africa build nests of clay twenty or more feet in height. These are called termite mounds. Among these higher species, the termites are often gigantic structures of great durability. They are formed of earth particles cemented together with either saliva or fecal material and upon drying the impregnated earth becomes of a cement-like hardness. Besides those of the African species, mentioned, the most remarkable of all termites are the lofty steeple-like structures of northern Australia. These also reach a height of 20 feet with a basal diameter of 12 feet, and the interiors of such a nest present a maze of irregular chambers and passages. In its deeper recesses the brood is reared and the royal cell containing the queen termite is located.

The Olive Tree's Arrival

Soon after the discovery of the American continent the olive was conveyed thither by the Spanish settlers. Introduced into Mexico by the Jesuit missionaries of the Seventeenth century, it was planted by a similar agency in California. The assumption is made that seed was introduced in 1769 from Mexico and planted at the San Diego mission, whence cuttings were taken to other missions throughout California.

Rats Fish With Tails

The "fishing rat" found on the uninhabited atolls off the coast of New Guinea, is an extraordinary animal writes I. E. Taylor, Seattle, Wash., in Collier's Weekly. As the islands are barren, these rats are obliged to fish in the sea for their food, a feat which they accomplish by dangling their pink tails in the water from the edge of a flat rock. Suddenly a crab will grab it—and that is the end of the crab.

Fly-Swallowing Tails

The matter of usefulness probably explains the fact that horses and cattle have so much larger and heavier tails in comparison to their size than is the case with elephants and swine. The horses and cattle need their rear appendages to switch away the flies, but the elephants and swine, with their thick hides, are bothered comparatively little by these pests, so do not need large tails.

Original New Zealand Bat

The little bat called pekapeka by the Maoris is believed to be the only original New Zealand mammal. The Maori dog and the Maori rat, early inhabitants of New Zealand of which only the latter is still in existence, are thought to have been brought from the South Sea islands by the Maoris.

Old Name of City of Tokyo

Yedo is the old name of the city of Tokyo. The name was changed from Yedo to Tokyo in 1868, when the imperial court was transferred to the present site from the old capital, Kyoto. The name Tokyo means eastern capital.

Whole Power

A scientific magazine advises that a baby whale when born weighs as much as 4,000 pounds, and at seven months, 30,000 pounds. The power of the whale is stupendous, for when full grown its strength is about 45 horsepower and its weight 120 tons.

Morro Castle in Port.

New York, March 14 (AP).—The Morro Castle came back to port today, a fire-damaged hulk that was the funeral pyre for 124 persons. The once luxurious Ward liner, beached at Asbury Park after the disastrous fire off the Jersey coast last September 8, was pulled off a sandbar early today. Two tugboats Willett and Resolute, after refloating the ship, towed her up the shore, around Sandy Hook, to anchor in Gravesend Bay, outside the Narrows south of quarantine.

Chinese

Harland chins is made at Limoges, France. M. Charles Harland established his works here in 1840 to make porcelain for the American market. Dresden china is really Chinese china. The Meissen porcelain factory was established by royal patent in January, 1710, by Johann Friedrich Böttger, whose works were equipped in the castle of Albrechtsburg overlooking the town of Meissen, Germany, a few miles west of Dresden, Saxony, France, to the location of the factory making chinaware bearing this name. It was established here in 1716 with the name of Meissen, de Pompadour, the factory, with the entire personnel, having been transferred from Albrechtsburg.

Mrs. S. E. Howland of Lake Hill was tendered a birthday surprise party at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Sickler, Mrs. Howland being 73 years old, is as active as a girl of 25 and is really the only one left of the old settlers of Mink Hollow, who still make their home there. She received a shower of cards, also money and many useful gifts. Those present at the party were her daughter, Mrs. Mira Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John Sickler, Myron, Arthur and Helen Sickler, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Quick and son, John, Mr. and Mrs. Greenville Quick, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ford Quick.

Mrs. Katherine Terwilliger, known to all as Aunt Kathie, was the recipient of many and varied gifts. A pleasant time was had by all. Games were played during the course of the evening. Defends His Information.

Stone Ridge, N. Y.,
March 12, 1935.

To the Editor of
The Kingston Daily Freeman:

In a prominent article of your March 7th issue, you allude to "confused information" in your analysis of my statement before the Board of Supervisors "that about 1906 or 1907, upon a change from Democratic to Republican control of the board, the position of county engineer was abolished, and that subsequently a Republican was placed in a similar position, but with the title changed to county superintendent of highways."

At the outset, I would like to express to you my appreciation for the information which you have made available by delving so deeply into the records of those early days, and also the admiration which I have long felt for the ingenious manner in which you weave your editorial policy into your front page news items.

It has never been my practice to publicly "voice" statements or opinions without having what I consider reliable information as to their accuracy. In this matter I considered myself well advised from reliable sources and by persons intimately connected with the events, their cause and significance, among whom was the incumbent, John F. Hallinan, who was ousted, and he above all people should know what happened at that time. I will very frankly state that I did not realize, until reading your search of the official records, how closely and truly those records confirmed the information given me.

In my remarks to the board on night of March 6th I stated:

First, that about 25 or 30 years ago John F. Hallinan, a Democrat, held the post of county engineer under appointment of a Democratic board. In confirmation of this statement, may I repeat from your article, the resolution which reads as follows:

Resolved, that John F. Hallinan be appointed county engineer without salary until the county road system has been adopted by the board and until the necessary maps are made.

This resolution indicates that the position was known as "county engineer" and by no other name. Your article concedes that the Democratic party was in control and I believe that it is also conceded that Mr. Hallinan was and is a Democrat.

Second, that upon the change from Democrat to Republican control of the board, the Democrat incumbent was removed and the office of "county engineer" abolished. This statement your article proves for me by quoting the official record in the following resolution:

Resolved, that John F. Hallinan be discharged and relieved from further services as county engineer of Ulster county. Your article concedes that the Republican party came into control in 1906.

Third, that subsequently a Republican was appointed to a similar office with the title changed to "county superintendent of highways". In confirmation of the third portion of the statement I submit the motion of Supervisor Schantz, "that James F. Loughran be appointed county superintendent of highways of Ulster county. Upon roll being called Mr. Loughran was appointed by the following vote: Ayes 27. Carried." This motion unquestionably indicates that the title became "county superintendent of highways" and that it was filled by Mr. Loughran, whom I believe is conceded to be a Republican.

In view of the accuracy and the detail with which the official records correspond with my statement of last week, I am inclined to favor a belief in the truth of my information, particularly since it is also confirmed by the facts of your article. I am enclosing a statement from Mr. Hallinan on the subject and respectfully request its publication together with this letter.

Yours for fair weather,
ROSS K. OSTERHOUDT,
Supervisor, Marbiettown.

Mr. Hallinan Should Know
March 7, 1935

Ross K. Osterhoudt,
Supervisor, Town of Marbiettown,
Stone Ridge, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Confirming our conversation with reference to the vacating and abolishing the office of County Engineer about 1906, I desire to make the following statement, as the recollection of the incumbent at that time.

I was appointed by a Democratic Board of Supervisors to the position of County Engineer about 1904 and held the position for about two years. In the election of 1905 a majority of Republican Supervisors were elected and took office on the first of the year 1906. With this change from Democratic to Republican control of the Board of Supervisors followed the abolition of the office of County Engineer. There was no question in my mind as to the efficacy of, or the reason for the removal, regardless of the subtle methods followed. Some time later, an examination was held and the appointment made to an office known as County Superintendent of Highways, the Republican Board of Supervisors appointing James F. Loughran, who has held that office under Republican auspices ever since.

A STUDY IN WASHINGTON PERSONALITIES

Here is a glimpse of official Washington at work—a study in faces of administration leaders as they grappled with the day's problems. Top left is Marbitt S. Eccles, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, as he appeared before the house banking committee; top right, Francis Middle of the National Labor Relations Board, before the senate labor committee; lower left, Donald Richberg, NRA boss, addressed the senate finance body; and Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes pondered a question at his press conference. (Associated Press Photos)

Regardless of the words used, the reasons for, or the time consumed in effecting the change, the result was that the office of County Engineer was abolished, a Democrat was removed and a Republican supplanted the Democrat in a similar position with a different title. As the incumbent, subjectively and actively interested in the events, I believe that my impressions and reactions placed me in the position of knowing whether or not it was a political steam roller that flattened me.

In closing may I refer you to the March 7th issue of the Kingston Freeman, in which is given a search of Official Records of the Board confirming in detail the information I gave you.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HALLINAN.

(Supervisor Osterhoudt's finely tempered letter does substantiate what he wrote that he said at the session of the supervisors, and Mr. Hallinan's missive further substantiates his remarks, but neither of the letters refutes the statements made by The Freeman. The "confusion" charged to Mr. Osterhoudt lies in the circumstance that from the time when Mr. Hallinan was relieved of his duties as "County Engineer" in 1906 until 1908 when the state legislature enacted legislation requiring the county road system there was no county engineer or highway superintendent, and that in 1908 Mr. Loughran was appointed highway superintendent after an examination. Mr. Hallinan was not ousted on any charges, the records simply showing "conditions in the county do not demand or require a county engineer, therefore he is relieved that John F. Hallinan be discharged and relieved from further services as County Engineer of Ulster County." The cases are hardly parallel in that no one replaced Mr. Hallinan for two years after his dismissal and Mr. Hallinan was not ousted on any charge to make room for another person. Mr. Osterhoudt says the vote selecting Mr. Loughran was Ayes 27, which indicates there was harmony among members of the board although it could hardly be conceived that all of the 27 were Republicans.—Ed.)

QUARTERLY MEETING IN FREE METHODIST CHURCH.

The second quarterly meeting of the conference year will be held in the Free Methodist Church on Tremper avenue, between Downs and O'Neil streets, over this week-end, with preaching Friday night at 7:45, Saturday night at 7:45, Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The elder, the Rev. Adam Krups, will have charge and preach the sermon at every service. The public is invited to attend.

"Excellent" Deer Hunting.
Albany, N. Y., March 14 (P).—Returning from an inspection tour in the north country, officials of the state conservation department today promised sportsmen "excellent" deer hunting next fall. Gardner Damp, superintendent of the Bureau of Fish and Game, who made the trip with Victor Skiff, a field agent of the department, said deer had survived the Adirondack winter better than last year and were plentiful. "Indications point to excellent hunting conditions in the fall," he added.

Troop No. 18 on Fire.
Sunday afternoon, March 10, a group of Boy Scouts from Troop No. 12, trapped to Coward Falls for an afternoon hike. When they got there they saw a beautiful sight with the ladies still hanging down from the falls. Many trees were passed and the wet walk home was enjoyed by all.

Our exports of cotton have declined 40 per cent and foreign demand of cotton has increased 50 per cent. That is one thing that the New Deal in cotton helped to accomplish.

Business Girls Supper Wednesday

There was an excellent attendance at the Business and Professional Girls' Club supper on Wednesday evening. Following the supper, additional announcements were made relative to preparations for the conference to be held at the Kingston Y. W. C. A. on April 6 and 7. One of the big items to be considered in preparing for these young women who will be guests of our city, is the providing for them of rooms and Sunday morning breakfast without charge to them or the Y. W. C. A. Already many of the club members and friends have expressed a willingness to entertain delegates, but as it is expected that there will be some hundred and fifty guests the problem still remains sizeable. If there are friends who would be willing to entertain one or two of the young ladies for the night of Saturday, April 6, and give them breakfast on Sunday morning, April 7, it would be greatly appreciated if they would communicate with the Y. W. C. A. telephone 1911.

The announcement was made that the speaker at the supper next week would be the Rev. Frank H. Neal, pastor of St. James M. E. Church.

Last evening Miss Estey gave a very interesting review of one section of the book, "Living on Twenty-four Hours a Day," relative to the leisure time of employed women and girls. Miss Millard spoke briefly but well on the same topic, and Miss Bryant, the president, who presided at the meeting, gave what proved to be a really interesting and very valuable statistical resume as it had been tabulated for the Y. W. C. A. clubs by the National Y. W. C. A. program closed with another excellent presentation of the subject given by Miss Hull, who had given the same talk during a discussion at the College Women's Club on a previous evening on the subject of the economic changes in the lives of business women. It was particularly encouraging in that it showed an upward trend in the business activities of women as to the character and pay of their work, thus giving them more leisure for enjoying and participating in the better things in life.

Sphinx, Says Greek Story, Was Monster That Killed

The sphinx, in ancient Greek legend, was a monster which appeared in Boeotia, and killed all the inhabitants who could not solve a riddle which she propounded to them. The riddle was: "What animal is it that has four feet, and two feet, and three feet, and only one voice; yet its feet vary, and when it has most it is weakest?" Oedipus answered rightly: "Man; for he crawls on all fours as an infant, and in old age moves on his feet and a staff." Upon this the sphinx slew herself.

The idea of the sphinx came to Greece, no doubt from Egypt. But in Egypt the sphinx is represented as a lion without wings, with a human head; while the Greek sphinx is a winged lion, with a woman's breast and head.

The most remarkable sphinx is the Great Sphinx at Gizeh, a colossal form, hewn out of the natural rock. Immediately in front of the breast is a small niche, or chapel, formed of three hieroglyphical tablets. These inscriptions of the Roman period, some as late as the third century, were discovered in the walls and construction. On the second digit of the left claw of the sphinx, an inscription, in penta-meter Greek verse, by Antioch, was discovered. Another inscription was also found. In America and throughout the world, representations of sphinxes have been found, and they are not uncommon in the modern works of art.—Indianapolis News.

Plebiscite Long in Use in European Countries

In 1802, Bonaparte, when the senate refused to make him consul for life, determined to "consult the people" on the subject of his status. It was unprecedented that a simple consular decree should order a plebiscite. The fact that it did was rather a coup d'etat. The results of the plebiscite were a singular success for Bonaparte, observes a writer in the New York Times.

The right to name his successor was openly demanded by Napoleon in the Senate-Consulte. Only one step more was needed to make the right hereditary and to enable him to give himself a monarchical or imperial title. This final step was taken in 1804 when the first consul of the republic became emperor of France. The proposition was submitted to a plebiscite which was taken by universal suffrage in the same form as its predecessors. In May, 1804, there were 3,572,329 affirmative and 256,939 negative votes.

Duties of Toastmaster Include Witty Comment

It may be an honor to be invited to act as toastmaster, an indirect compliment from the host or hostess, but it is not an easy job, asserts a writer in the Detroit Free Press. The person who performs it successfully and the one who is invited to act in that capacity again is the one who possesses extreme tactfulness, good taste and sharp, quick wit.

The toastmaster is seated at the center of the speakers' table. At his right is the guest of honor, the principal speaker of the evening. The speaker or guest of next importance is at the left of the toastmaster.

When the dinner is completed the toastmaster calls for attention. When he gets it he proceeds to make his own remarks about the importance of the occasion and the purpose of the party in as interesting a manner as possible. His talk is short and specific.

Animals, Birds, Insects Administer to Injuries

Elephants and other wild beasts wash themselves freely in streams and lakes, and sometimes use mud plasters. Birds and some insects—particularly ants—also bathe the injured parts. Sheep seek out certain helpful herbs and eat them, and cats sometimes do the same with special kinds of grass. Insects seem to come into these healing methods a good deal for animals that have rheumatism lie out in the sunlight, and so get the benefit of its warmth. Ants that have had their "feet" cut have been known to have "first-aid" treatment from their friends, who dressed the wound with a fluid that came from the mouth. A wounded rhinoceros sometimes to stop bleeding by gnawing grass and leaves on the wound, and there is a well-known case of a dog which, when it had been badly bitten on the nose by a viper, kept on gnawing its head into fuming water for several days, and in the end got better. —Montreal Herald.

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER STURGES, JR.

Albany, March 14 (Special).—They're in! After 10 years behind schedule yesterday afternoon witnessed bills introduced to finally draw new senatorial and assembly districts. This has been the major set of bills of the session, and compares only with such huge items as the budget bills. Much credit is due Senator John T. McCall, New York Democrat, who has been chairman of this special legislative joint committee, and to his committee's counsel, William J. O'Shea, for their strenuous work in getting these measures prepared.

The highly populated area of New York and its surrounding suburbs will see the greatest shifting around of districts. But submission of these bills to committee is only the first barrier in the battle yet to come. For the first time in 21 years the Democratic party has secured control of both chambers, and the Republicans, by themselves, are powerless to check any move the majority cares to make in passing these measures. However, it is believed that in their present form these bills will not sail with any great ease, because in order to do so it is necessary that several Democratic members vote themselves out of office. If a few insurgent Democrats line up with the Republican party, which is expected to register some disapproval, a block powerful enough can be found to prevent the success of reapportionment measures.

Reappointment.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman reappointed Addison P. Jones of Catskill, as a member of the New York State Bridge Authority yesterday, as his term was about to expire. Upon motion by Mr. Jones' Senator, Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, the Senate unanimously confirmed the reappointment.

Visitor.

Despite his years of nearly a century, 92-year old Wesley Barnes, a member of the Assembly 50 years ago when the veteran Mr. "Joe" McGinnies was having his 21st birthday and the present speaker was not even born, paid his respects to the lower house yesterday and was enthusiastically received by the members. He hails from Olmsteadville, in Essex county.

Onlookers.

Several classes from local public schools made an inspection tour of the senate yesterday and saw the state's lawmakers at work.

Mr. Twomey Is Puzzled.

Senator Jeremiah Twomey, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee introduced a bill, then voted against it. His leader asked him why. "Because," came the answer, "I object to commissions and prefer committees." His bill included the setting up of a commission. After some persuasion he changed his vote from "no" to "aye."

"Come, Come, Come."

Julius S. Berg, New York Democrat, wanted to put through a bill that his brother has worked on over four years. He explains that it was designed to create a new type of service. "This bill will place credit under better control in the future," he stated, "and add a definite safeguard and have a tendency to reduce economic chaos." He went on to tell that had such a law been in existence prior to the depression many persons would have suffered a great deal less. It provides for a number of certified credit consultants, and he added "it will throw open a new field to the young men and women of our commonwealth." Plattsburg's Benjamin A. Feinberg answered Mr. Berg that this bill had no merit, and chortled pleasantly that the abbreviated (CCC) certified credit consultants might mean "come, come, come." John J. McNaboe asked if the spelling could not be changed to K. K. K. After some more burling a roll call was taken and Mr. Berg lost his bill by a vote of 25-14.

Unemployment Insurance

Into the governor's office for a three-hour personal chat with the chief executive met six industrial captains to plead for amendments to the Byrne-Killgrew unemployment insurance bill that had a six-hour public hearing last week. Main objection was in the prescribed method of contributing to the fund that is to be used for paying unemployed persons when the bill is passed. At present employers will have to foot the entire thing, and they want the employees to share part of this expense. Proponents last week declared that employees did their share by the fact that they had to be unemployed in the first place and that under the bill they will not get paid for three weeks after losing their jobs anyhow. Mr. Lehman announced that there would be some amendments to the bill.

To Washington

Yesterday evening, accompanied by his new Agricultural Commissioner, Peter G. Ten Eyck, Governor Lehman sped to Washington to see Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace about the milk situation in this state. His interest and deep concern of this grave problem has given the governor a great deal of concern, and he is planning to use every available means to overcome these difficulties. Because of the recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court on importation of milk in New York, which was adverse to legislation passed last year, the New York Milk Shed is becoming flooded with this product from other states to the extent that foreign milk has increased 100 per cent in the past few weeks. This ruins the price for New York farmers. After his return from the national capital, the governor will hold his conference with the heads of Massachusetts, Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey and Maryland governments, which he has called for next week.

Attorney General Disappointed

Approximately 90 per cent of the anti-crime bills sought by John J. Bennett, Jr., state attorney general, have died. Too many lawyers in this government to approve of them, so they have been killed in committee.

"Milk Dumping"

Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, lone woman senator, is introducing a bill today in an effort to shut down the spurt of milk into New York from other states. It stipulates that any out-of-state producer wishing to ship milk or cream into this state would first have to secure a permit from New York's Commissioner of Health. He in turn would be barred from issuing such a permit unless these products were produced under the same sanitary requirements as are in force at home.

Commenting on her bill, Senator Graves stated, "This would exert a decidedly salutary effect upon the promiscuous milk dumping which has followed and which will follow the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court in invalidating the right of the Division of Milk Control of the Department of Farms and Markets to set the price dealers will pay producers for milk originating outside the state."

ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

The Camp Committee of the Girl Scout Council of Ulster county met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Van Dyke Barton, Main street, Kingston, at which time it was decided to engage one of the directors for Camp Wendy whom commissioner Miss Eleanor Rose and treasurer, Miss Helen Hasbrouck, had interviewed and by whom they had been favorably impressed. Several improvements are to be made at "Wendy" before the camp season begins.

These were discussed at length. Many helpful suggestions were made by Mr. DeWitt of Wallkill, who is a very active and energetic member of the council. Mr. DeWitt assumed the responsibility of securing estimates, etc., on the work to be done.

Resolutions Adopted

It was moved that resolutions be adopted for both Dr. Mary Gage-Day, our late commissioner, and charter member; also for Lewis Borden.

Organized Ulster Scouts

At a meeting in St. John's Parish House, Kingston, 1918, Dr. Mary Gage-Day organized the Ulster County Girl Scout Council. She was the first commissioner and established the first Girl Scout camp in Ulster county at Mt. Tremper. Since the foundation of the Girl Scout organization she had been a loyal supporter, meeting all difficulties with a smile and giving time and advice to those in charge. By her death last week, in Florida, the Ulster County Girl Scout Council has suffered a very great loss. The council has also lost another esteemed member in the death of Lewis Borden of New York city. Although known to few he was always very interested in Girl Scout activities and especially at Camp Wendy.

The Girl Scout leaders are requested to meet with Miss Eaton on Saturday, March 16, at 2:30 o'clock, in the Fair Street Reformed Church. The Girl and Boy Scouts of Ellenville had a social meeting Monday evening to see pictures of "Roadside Plantings" in Long Island. R. T. Childs of Kew Gardens explained the slides. It was very gratifying to the leaders to see the interest the Scouts took in protecting the road-sides.

Southern Ulster Club Held Monthly Meeting

West Park, March 14.—The Women's Club of southern Ulster county held its regular monthly meeting on March 12, at 8 p. m., in the Ascension Church parish house. Mrs. A. L. LeFevre presiding. The speaker of the evening was Emory Jacobs of New Palitz Normal, whose subject was "History in the Making." Mr. Jacobs stated that Huey Long, Gen. Johnson and Father Coughlin are the three most interesting and amusing characters of the day. Senators Carter Glass and Harry Byrd from Virginia are a pair of interesting men. Mr. Jacobs also stated that socialism is being encouraged today and it is believed that it is coming. There is nothing to keep us from going in that direction. The government has an interest in all fields of industry today. One-fourth of the people are under control of the government and it is easy to get the other remaining three-quarters that way. Foreign countries, such as China, Japan, Germany, Italy, Russia and other countries are making history. Mr. Jacobs says that through his experience with young people he believes that they are quickly being led to radical thinking. Questions were asked by the members of the club and Mr. Jacobs was pleased to answer them.

The Rev. G. S. Dunesath spoke a few words to the club saying that he had hoped that the parish house would be used for such purposes and now that the Women's Club was using it for an educational club it was "a dream come true."

The Women's Club will hold a card party on May 1, at 8 p. m., in the parish house. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Klein and Mrs. Walker of Ulster Park; Mrs. R. Wagert of Rhinebeck; Miss Wells of Port Jervis; Mrs. A. L. The next meeting of the women's club will be held on April 9, at 8 p. m. in the parish house. Any woman and girl over 16, is cordially invited to attend.

NEW QUARTERS FOR OIL CLARIFIER, INC.

The W. G. B. Oil Clarifier, Inc., now located at 709 Broadway, will move into its new quarters, 100 Greenkill avenue, the first of April, after remodeling of the building, formerly owned by Richard Tappen, has been completed by William McCullough, local contractor.

About 20 men are now working on the building, repairing it and making improvements that will enlarge the place to an extent that will give the oil clarifier concern 5,000 feet of floor space. All local workmen are employed on the job.

W. G. Burhans, president of the corporation, today said that the reason for removing from Broadway to the Greenkill avenue plant was to afford more room necessitated by the growth of the business built up by the W. G. B. Clarifier corporation. This concern started business in Kingston during 1931.

The product manufactured by W. G. B. Clarifier, Inc., is used on automobiles of all makes to clarify motor oil, adding to its lubricating qualities and lessening the number of changes, say those who invented it. The device is sold all over the United States and in South America, Mr. Burhans said.

LANE PLEADED GUILTY TO DRUNKEN DRIVING

George Lane of Lake Hill, when arraigned before Judge Culliton in police court this morning pleaded guilty to driving a car while intoxicated and was fined $50 and his driving license revoked by the court.

Lane was arrested Wednesday by Officers Bowers and Kinch. The officers stated that their notice was first attracted by seeing Lane driving on the wrong side of the street, but that fortunately no collision occurred.

Lane when arraigned in court was informed of his rights and asked if he desired a postponement of the hearing or if he desired to enter a plea at that time.

"I might just as well plead now," said Lane.

"How do you plead to the charge?" asked the court.

"Guilty," replied Lane briefly.

LARGE SWORDFISH DISPLAYED AT THE MOHICAN MARKET

A huge 354-pound swordfish at the Mohican market Wednesday attracted the attention of shoppers in the store. Manager Trenchbridge the previous week had a large swordfish for his customers and found the delicacy so well liked by Kingstonians that this week a larger one was secured.

Sliced in huge steaks the fish attracted attention, and not because of the size of the swordfish, but because more room is needed in the fish department at all times, alterations are being made. The cashier cage which was formerly adjacent to the fish department has been removed and placed along side the other cashier cage opposite the grocery department. The space formerly used by the cashier cage is being occupied now by the fish department.

Famous Renaissance Club Here Tomorrow To Play Legionnaires

At last they are coming! The famous Renaissance players, who have been eluding Frank Morgenweck since early in the season, will be at the Municipal Auditorium Friday night, March 15, to play the Kingston Legionnaires.

The colored champions of the world will bring all of their stars to oppose the winners of the New York State Basketball League title, and the addition of the skirmish between these two sets of cage kings is expected to be one of the most sensational battles ever seen at the Auditorium.

Manager Douglas, of the celebrated colored club, has informed Pop Morgenweck that his lineup will be Yancy, Rickes and Salich, forwards; Cooper and Smith, centers; and Pat Jenkins and Holt, guards. This is the most famous group of Ethiopeans ever assembled, say men like Morgie, who have made a life study of basketball.

This is the same lineup that played 98 games in 1925-26, winning 81 and losing 17. During 1926-27, the team played 163. It won 84 and lost 19. In 1927-28 the club went through 131 skirmishes, coming out victorious in 111 and dropping 20. The season of 1928-29 brought the club 112 wins out of 132 starts, and in 1931-32 the victories were 115 against 23 defeats. The 1932-33 record shows 127 wins and only 8 losses. In 1933-34 the negro aces copped 121 decisions out of 140 duels.

During the past season the Renaissance has set an all-time record of winning 88

Carnera Favored, 3-1 To Beat Impellittere

Primo's Experience Expected to Give Him Advantage Over Other Giant—Winner May Meet Lasky-Braddock Victor.

New York, March 14 (AP).—Primo Carnera, Italy's "tall tower" of the heavyweights who was toppled from the championship last year by Max Baer, was a 3 to 1 favorite today to conquer Ray Impellittere in the battle of the Behemoths at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

An overnight shift in the odds favored the Italian's first step toward another shot at the title. Indications were that the margin might increase before the giants enter the ring.

Primo, despite the doubts that have been raised at various times about his power to deliver real punches, has a big edge in experience and has developed into a fine boxer for a man of his size.

The real attraction which was expected to draw the season's biggest fight crowd to the Garden, however, was the bulk of the two contestants. Carnera weighs 260 pounds in fighting trim. Impellittere carries two pounds less, but the Imp's six feet 7 1/2 inches hoist him a half inch above Primo. That alone should provide plenty of action if they fight up to their size.

Impellittere is considered one of the fastest of the big fellows and may give trouble on that count.

The Garden management plans to match the winner of tomorrow's scrap with the winner of the Art Lasky-Jimmy Braddock encounter, which was set yesterday for March 22. The survivor of that meeting would in turn face Max Schmeling in a final elimination leading to a title bout.

TUNING IN ON PRIMO'S HEART

After listening to Primo Carnera's heart beat, Dr. William Walker said it sounded like a grandfather's clock. He pronounced Primo fit for his fight March 15 with another man-mountain, Ray Impellittere. (Associated Press Photo)

Fuller-Clermonts Against the Z. N. P.

The second game between the Z. N. P. Sporting Club basketball team and the Fuller-Clermonts will take place in White Eagle Hall, home court of the former club, tonight, starting at 9 o'clock.

In the first meeting, the Z. N. P. boys took the shirt makers over by one point. The game was nip and tuck, furnishing the spectators with lots of thrills. Tonight's skirmish is expected to be a repetition of the first battle. However, the Fuller-Clermont five claims that the winning margin will be in their favor.

Recently the Fuller-Clermonts defeated the Rose Bowl Lions, a group of Columbia University students, at the Municipal Auditorium in an interesting game that was decided in favor of the home club by a field in the last few seconds of play.

Opposing lineups will be: Z. N. P.—Kieffer, Kennoch, Gelsler, Bob Munson, Don Kelly and Ad

Stumpf.

Fuller-Clermonts—Bob Purvis, Bill Teetsell, Hornbeck, Whitey Myers, Dykes, Carpino and Storms.

There will be two prelims, one at 8 o'clock featuring the White Eagles and the other at 7 between two formidable junior clubs.

Helen Wills Moody Wields Racquet Again

San Francisco, March 14 (AP).—The comeback trail loomed ahead today for Mrs. Helen Wills Moody as the former American and world champion woman tennis player laid plans for daily practice with the hope of again becoming an international competitor.

On a private court here yesterday the former queen of the courts swung her racquet in practice for the first time since 1933 when a back injury forced her out of the national championships.

Only Howard Kinsey, former internationalist and present instructor, was taken into Mrs. Moody's confidence in yesterday's return to the court.

"Mrs. Moody hit the ball easily and her stroking was good," Kinsey said. "I was impressed with her technique and she did everything in proper balance."

Frisch Fears Over-Confidence; Cards Can't Win on Reputation

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.

Bradenton, Fla., March 14 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals have a reputation for being one of the hardest-boiled clubs in baseball but they act more like a squad of happy, well-paid athletes this spring than the rough and rugged band that swarmed to the top of the heap last fall.

The world champions know they are good, they have speed, power and superlative pitching, allowing even for a slight falling off in the victory column by the Dean brothers. They have turned up a sensational new center-fielder in Terry Moore.

The second line of defense probably will be stronger, with Charley Gelbert making an infield come-back.

Over-Confidence Feared.

All of which has developed a tendency toward over-confidence that Manager Frankie Frisch is doing his utmost to combat. The high tide of prosperity is not necessarily fatal but it is a fact that the Cardinals have yet to come back and win the pennant after being victorious in the world series.

They skidded in 1927 and again in 1932—but Frisch wasn't manager then.

To keep the minds of his charges upon the game and the importance of getting into condition early, Frisch is working his team harder than any outfit this observer has seen in Florida. There are two workouts daily. The driving, energetic methods of John Joseph McGraw prevail under the regime of Frisch.

"This team must realize it cannot win this year on its reputation," says Frisch. "As a matter of fact we were lucky last season. It will be a battle all the way for us again."

Afraid of Giants.

Frisch thinks his club will be stronger, perhaps sturdier, but candidly fears the Giants. He rates Bill Terry's club at least a full notch above any other rival.

Dizzy Dean is more confident the Cardinals will repeat than he is of his own ability to touch 30 victories again. He admits he will be lucky to collect 25 and figures the aggregate output for the famous brother act as "40 or more."

Pitching Should Be Good.

Paul Dean, the silent half of the combination, should have a better sophomore year than he enjoyed as a freshman. He won 19 games last season despite a poor start and a twisted ankle.

The Deans, unless they suffer a severe reaction, should combine with Bill Walker, Bill Hallahan and Pat Malone, newly acquired from the Cubs, to give the club all the first class pitching it needs. Hallahan, with a real comeback year for the red birds, two old campaigners, Jesse Haines and Harry Vance, will shoulder the relief work. Among the candidates for variety jobs are Ray Harrell, Norbert Kistake, Harry Pippin, Dick Ward and Lyle (Bud) Tinning. The first three are "farm products," the last two from the Cubs.

Latest News from The Baseball Front

(By The Associated Press.)

Miami Beach, Fla.—The holdout of Hank Leiber, which got a lot of publicity because neither he nor Manager Bill Terry did any serious talking about it, has come to an end. After several days of training with the regularly enrolled members of the squad and appearing in exhibition games, he signed up yesterday.

Orlando, Fla.—Manager Casey Stengel remained discreetly silent, but Joseph Gillette, vice president of the Dodgers, had it figured out that Brooklyn would win 95 games this season. Figuring Van Lingle Mungo as a 20-game winner, Gillette rated the list of hurlers as follows: Dutch Leonard, 17; Ray Benge, 16; Johnny Babich, 15; Watson Clark, 14; Frank Lamanske and Bob Logan, a total of 12; and Tom Zachary, five.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Tony Lazzeri, expecting some stiff competition from Don Heffner for the regular second base job with the Yankees, has had little trouble getting into shape. He spent the winter climbing hills to take off weight and reported at the same time as when he joined the Yanks in 1935.

"I took off 14 pounds," said Tony. "and I feel better without the extra weight."

Bradenton, Fla.—Dizzy Dean will face Babe Ruth from the pitching box for the first time this year when the world champion Cardinals play the Boston Braves at St. Petersburg next Wednesday.

Manager Frank Frisch said today he expects to start his ace right-hander in this game to give the "Grapefruit League" fans the spectacle they have been anticipating.

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT.

(By The Associated Press.)

Trenton, N. J.—Chief Little Wolf, 215, California, threw John Swenski, 197, Lynn, Mass., two straight falls.

Des Moines, Ia.—Al Sparks, 215, Utah, defeated Ernest Herfner, 230, Texas, two straight falls.

spectacular fashion. Only 22 years old and a couple of seasons off the St. Louis mainstay, Moore came up this spring from the Columbus "farm" with a .325 batting record and tagged "ready for the big show." He is fast, aggressive and the kind of a ballhawk managers dream about.

Otherwise the club will start with the crew that mopped up last year. The infield is set with Jim Collins, who aspires to greater home run honors; Frisch, Leo Durocher and Pepper Martin. Durocher is in no danger of losing the shortstop job to Gelbert, back after a two-year absence with a wounded foot.

Joe Medwick, victim of the batter's barrage in the World Series, and Jack Rothrock will flank Terry Moore in the outfield. Bill Delaney and Virgil Davis provide a pair of slugging backstops, with the veteran Bob O'Farrell back in the Cardinal fold for reserve duty.

Fundamentals Of Bowling

By C. O. (CHUCK) COLLIER

Nationally Known Bowling Authority.

Lesson 3—How to Correctly Hold the Ball.

It is practically impossible for anyone to advise a bowler just how he should hold a ball. In regard to the position of his fingers on the outside of the ball.

While there are several general position styles of the fingers, there are a great many individual styles which should not be attempted by the beginner, as these styles have been developed after the bowler has had considerable experience.

If the proper ball has been selected, the holding should not be difficult, particularly when the bowler takes a natural hold and does not try to spread the fingers or place them so close together that a cramped position develops.

Place thumb and finger in holes letting other fingers rest in a perfectly natural position. It is a mistaken idea that the fingers must be spread all over the ball to develop a hook. You can roll any kind of a ball with fingers spread or close together. If the fingers feel rested in natural position (see Photographs 4 and 5). (Tomorrow—Position and Delivery).

Youth Council
Assembly Saturday

Saturday is "Youth Day" in Kingston when delegates from the churches and youth groups of Ulster county will gather at the Y. M. C. A. to attend the Second Quarterly Assembly of Youth Council. A fine program has been arranged, and it is thought that a good representation of young people will be present to spend the day. Especially interesting promises to be three foreign students from Vassar College who will bring messages from the youth and youth movements of their countries.

Miss Laura Mel-Ling Jee, of Teintsin, North China, has been instrumental in securing two other young ladies to come to Kingston, and speak with her at the various sessions of the Assembly. Assisting her service by entering late.

Mannerchor Dance

Monday evening, March 18, the Rondout Social Mannerchor will hold a Shamrock dance at their hall on Strand and Hasbrouck avenue. Since the floor has been redressed and is now in excellent shape for dancing a good crowd is expected and the committee in charge has made arrangements for a good time. The music as usual will be by the Catskill Mountain Orchestra, Pardee and Allen, who have been playing together for the past four years and have proved to be very popular with local people.

The Nick of Time.

Chicago, March 14 (AP).—Luckily
Edgard Edmunds is a light sleeper, or he might have awakened this morning to find the roof gone from over his head. Aroused by sounds in the basement of the house where he lives, Edmunds investigated and found five men busily engaged in tearing away valuable parts of the building, starting with the plumbing.
He called police who arrested four of the intruders. The fifth climbed from a basement window and escaped.

REMODELING THE BLUE EAGLE

2. NRA May Be Stripped Down For Third Year Flight

This is the second in a series of three daily articles.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE.

Washington (AP).—The NRA's feverish first phase has seen the erection of a vast labyrinthine structure over which the remodeling axe has been poised. The trend is for a stripped-down simplified mechanism for the third year.

Men who deal in things as far apart as buttons and locomotives have come under codes. They cover some 600 phases of industry and business, affect 13,000,000 workers, cost around $55,000,000 a year—
most of which comes from industry —to administer, or about $2.50 per worker.

the baker and candlestick maker—emerge from under the wing of the rapidly that now it is estimated of- tions of varying size, for home work is in the fold.

Provisions as to trade practices
Men and women employed by NRA are equally diverse. Among those number about 4,500, not counting variously banned are misrepresenta-
the thousands hired by code author- tion, secret rebates, commercial ities made up of business men. In bribery, defamation of competitors, cils, boards, divisions and offices, voicing, espionage by competitors, officials in every state.

Code provisions are so varying that official publications have not tried to list them all. Some sections

Aviators applaud flight of plane with automobile suspended beneath

What these flyers say:

LIEUT. HINTON says:
"I wish to compliment you, not only upon the tests themselves, but also upon the excellent educational value of your advertisements. It is development such as this that is bringing aviation into prominence as a major industry."

COL. CHAMBERLIN says:
"I have watched with interest the help being given to aviation by companies of importance which are national advertisers and I am daily impressed with the fact that, but for such assistance, the general public would have little concept of the tremendous aeronautical advance which each year brings."

MR. PANGBORN says:
"It must be realized that there is a severe mental hazard to overcome in any first-of-its-kind, unusual experiment of this kind. This has been my experience, based on years of flying. I congratulate you on your enterprise in this matter."

MR. WILLIAMS says:
"Sun Oil Company scores another first. Aviation is certainly indebted to you for proving that an automobile can be carried safely under the fuselage of an airplane. This daring flight proved the practicability of something which before had seemed visionary."

ALEXANDER KLENN
Professor Aeronautical Engineering, David
Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York.
says: "I had the pleasure of seeing out the substance and control of this Sun Oil airplane with the automobile suspended underneath, in the wind tunnel at New York University. The results indicated that both the control and stability remained satisfactory. This was fully proved by the flight test and a valuable scientific fact has thus been fully established."
